ADJOURN TELEPHONE RATE HEARING UNTIL OCT. 28

U.S. Officials Resent Rumors In Japan Press

Gale Delays Air Monster

San Diego, Calif.—Gales in the Pacific northwest, reaching as great a velocity as 90 miles an hour, Wednesday held the navy dirigible Shenandoah to her mooring mast here and caused postponement of her departure for Camp Lewis, Wash., until Thursday morning. Late Tuesday night advices were received from the United States Weather Bureau at San Francisco and from Lieut. Ben H. Wyatt of the North Island Air station who flew to Seattle, strongly urging that the Shenandoah be held at San Diego until the blow has passed. In making his announcement of postponement, Lieut. Zachary Lansdowne, commander of the ship, said that the Shenandoah has nothing to fear in any storm she may encounter in the air but that she has one important mission to fulfill and that it is to let the citizens of the Pacific coast, whose naval air service she represents, see her on her cross continental trip, the first such voyage ever made by a rigid dirigible.

Japanese Papers Charge America is Aiding Peking Government in War

CAUSE INTENSE FEELING Result of Propaganda Felt in Treatment Accorded Americans in China

Mukden, Manchuria—American officials here seriously concerned over what is termed "insidious" anti-American propaganda conducted by the Japanese press, are planning a protest to the Japanese foreign office. According to translations made by the United States consulate interpreter, the Tairaku Nichi Nichi says Wednesday morning: "Certainly America is secretly supplying arms to the Chihli (Peking government) forces. One hundred and ninety thousand rifles have been furnished already despite existing treaties governing the importations of arms into China."

The Manchui Nichi Nichi says: "American officers are taking part in the battles at Shanghaiwan, driving Chihli tanks. Many American soldiers are mixed with the Chihli troops wearing Chinese dress."

As a result of all this propaganda, Americans in Mukden are mistrusted. American newspaper correspondents are treated as spies and followed by Chinese police. No American newspaper man has been allowed to visit the front yet. Even Captain Norman Baldwin, official United States military observer, has not yet been granted permission to go to the battle front.

While fighting continued Wednesday at Shanghaiwan, the results were not definitely known. Terror reigns in the Chinese sections of Mukden owing to an order impressing coolies into front line war service. Many coolies have fled to the Japanese concession here.

Casualties in the armies of General Chang Tso Lin, battling against the Peking government forces on the Manchurian-Chihli border, are heavier than first reports indicated. An estimate Wednesday placed the total dead or injured at 14,000. A crucial battle is expected at Shanghaiwan within a week after the arrival of General Wu Pei Fu, military leader of the Peking government, with the Third Division of his troops.

CHICAGO SIGN MAGNATE RETIRE FROM BUSINESS

Salvation Army Starts Its Appeal For $4,000

Appleton's 1924 Salvation Army appeal got under way Tuesday evening with enthusiasm when 135 of the workers met for dinner at Conway hotel. Solicitation began Wednesday morning and reports are to be made at the close of each day to M. A. Schuh, campaign treasurer. The quota for the city is $4,000 and it is the aim of the workers to secure all of this sum and make Appleton go over the top for the first time.

William Commey, chairman, acted as conmaster and the Rev. J. L. Manzner, president of Appleton Ministerial association gave the invocation.

"Pep" talks were given by Brig. William Anderson and Earl C. Jeffrey of Milwaukee, division officials of the Salvation Army, and by T. B. Driscoll, field campaign manager. They explained the campaign and the work that is being done by the army, sprinkling plenty of humor through their talks.

Mrs. S. C. Shannon, chairman of the women's division, told the workers that the women were all organized and were pledged to do their full duty in obtaining Appleton's quota. Miss Lucy Helen Ferguson, director of Ap-

STATE WANTS MORE FIGURES ON VALUATION

Continuation of Hearing Will Be Held in Madison, McDonald Says

BASIS OF OTHER HEARINGS Want Phone Company Officers to Tell How They Fixed Property Values

Finding that an analysis of accounting methods of the Wisconsin Telephone company was needed in order to determine the justice of the proposed increase in rates, the Wisconsin railroad commission adjourned the public hearing on this matter after an all day session Tuesday at the courthouse, until Oct. 28. The continuation will take place at Madison on that date, according to A. R. McDonald, commission member who presided.

Appleton Chamber of Commerce and A. C. Bosser, city attorney, raised a number of questions concerning valuation, computing of depreciation, expenditure of reserve funds and comparison of rates here with those of other cities and it appears that this demand for more intimate facts has led the railroad commission to adopt a policy of greater research than ever before in order to reach a decision on higher rates.

NEW STATE POLICY Questioning by George C. May, thews, chief statistician of the commission, revealed that this will be the state's policy. This is done in part because the Appleton hearing is the forerunner of a possible plan of increasing rates widely over this state.

The next hearing therefore was transferred to Madison and the data which the commission ordered the company to present at that time will become the basis of computing of value and earnings of the plants owned all over the state. F. M. McEniry, general commercial superintendent and J. F. Krizek, general attorney, were unable to present these figures and facts off-hand, declaring that accountants of the Milwaukee office would have to be called in.

It was said by both telephone company officials and Attorney Homer H. Benton and Joseph D. Steele, spokesmen for the chamber of commerce, that a fair return on investment is desired by the telephone company. Mr. McDonald declared that the commission will analyze the proposition thoroughly and if it was shown that an increase is needed, it will be granted.

"The public should be just as interested in seeing that we get a fair return on the investment as we are ourselves," said Mr. McEniry during the hearing. "New money is needed occasionally in our business and without a good return people won't buy our securities and the plant won't be extended as the demand warrants. In our case the best is none too good for the public. We have no desire to increase the dividends to our stockholders. Our object is a fair return and we believe it is good business to expect more than a bare return."

France Will Recognize Red Russia

Paris—The French government Friday will formally recognize the Soviet Republic of Russia, according to information obtained in official circles Wednesday morning.

Announcement was made that the French recognition of Russia would be made under such terms as to reserve all the rights of the French government and of French citizens who hold Russian bonds to the amount of about twelve billion gold francs and who have business interests in Russia.

DRIVER FREED BY JURY OF CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Jurors Deliberate Only Half Hour After Charge is Received

By a verdict returned by a jury in circuit court Tuesday afternoon, Joseph Schiltz of Kimberly was found not guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of Ben Clauson of Kimberly, last spring. The jury deliberated only a half hour after it had received its charge from Judge Edgar V. Werner. The case was opened Tuesday morning, but most of the testimony was completed before noon.

Schiltz and Gust Hanges, an occupant of the death car, and several other witnesses who were spectators of the accident were put on the stand. The defendant testified that it was an unavoidable accident, and that he had applied the automobile brakes as soon as he saw Clauson, but that it was too late to avoid the collision.

The collision occurred at the corner of Kimberly-ave and Main-st in Kimberly, with Schiltz driving east on Kimberly-ave and Clauson riding a motorcycle south on Main-st. The automobile struck the side car of the motorcycle just as the latter turned to go east on Kimberly-ave. Clauson died of skull fracture the day after the accident.

ROSENBLUTH FREED IN KRONKHITE CASE

Dismissal of Case Against Army Officer Follows Acquittal of Pothier

Tacoma, Wash.—Robert Rosenbluth, former captain in the 213th Engineers who was jointly charged with Roland Pothier with the murder of Major Alexander Kronkhite at Camp Lewis in 1918, was freed Wednesday of accusation in connection with the case. The indictment against him was dismissed Tuesday afternoon by Judge E. E. Cushman, of the United States court, here, on motion of James W. Osborne, special prosecutor. Dismissal of the case against Rosenbluth is the outgrowth of the acquittal last week of Pothier. Judge Cushman also entered an order dismissing all witnesses from further attendance at court.

Witnesses from many states and possessions of the United States were here, awaiting the trial of Rosenbluth which was set for Wednesday. Pothier left Tuesday night to join his family in Central Falls, R. I. funds for his trip having been provided by the local post of the American legion. Rosenbluth also expects to leave soon for his home in New York.

WISE COUNSELLOR OWNER FACES EXTORTION SUITS

Chicago—Frederick Burton, wealthy president of the Burton Coal Co., and owner of Wise Counsellor, the race horse which beat Bipland in the first international race, is charged with extorting $400,000 in two damage suits on trial here.

One sought, brought by Mrs. Frank Crozier, wife of an attorney, charged Burton with extorting $100,000 from her by threats that he would have her husband disbarred because of malpractice. The second suit asked $300,000 damages and was brought by James J. McElwain, former president of a coal company. He charged the amount was extorted from him by Burton as a party to the alleged criminal action of Attorney Crozier.

FLYING FISTS ENLIVEN BOB'S ST. LOUIS TALK

LaFollette on Way to Des Moines, Ia., to Continue Campaign for Farmer Vote

ATTACKS WILSON REGIME Brookhart Plans to Board Train in Iowa to Ride With Independent

By Associated Press
LaFollette Special, Enroute to Des Moines, Ia.—Senator Robert M. LaFollette, independent candidate for president, after two campaign speeches in Missouri, was on his way Wednesday to Des Moines, Ia., where with an address Wednesday night he will continue his efforts to win votes in this agricultural region.

From the Iowa capital he will go to Minneapolis where he is scheduled to speak Thursday night and then will invade South Dakota for a speech Friday night in Sioux Falls.

As Mr. LaFollette speeds toward Des Moines from St. Louis, where Tuesday night he criticized the foreign policies of Woodrow Wilson and of the Harding-Coolidge administration, it was announced he was expected to have Senator Smith Brookhart of Iowa aboard his special car. Arrangements had been made, it was said, for Mr. Brookhart, who is running for reelection as a Republican, to board the train at Moulton, Ia., and ride with the presidential candidate as far as Albia. While the Iowa Senator has assailed both President Coolidge and his running mate, Charles C. Daves, he has not publicly endorsed Mr. LaFollette's candidacy.

It was announced that Philip LaFollette, son of the senator, would make a campaign address on the campus of the Iowa agricultural college at Ames late Wednesday. It was declared that Dr. R. A. Pearson of the institution, had refused to permit him to speak in a college building but that arrangements had been made by a committee of students to have the senator's son deliver a speech from an outdoor platform, erected for that purpose.

During his address at St. Louis Tuesday night, Senator LaFollette charged that the radio station at Des Moines, which he said is owned by the Bankers' Life Insurance Co., of that city, had declined to broadcast his speech Wednesday night although he declared such privilege have been accorded other candidates that spoke in Des Moines.

Mr. LaFollette's St. Louis meeting became a bit stormy near the end of his address when a group of men and boys seated in the gallery back of the platform, began to "boo" him. Supporters of the senator, however, drowned out the derisive cries with cheers, but the candidate found it so difficult to proceed that he finally would go up into the gallery and put a stop to the disorder. Those who caused the disturbance were ejected from the hall as the senator was winding up his speech but not until there had been several fist fights. Senator LaFollette was in excellent spirits Wednesday, and apparently had dismissed the incident from his mind. He told his friends that aside from a "few hoodlums" his audience in St. Louis was one of the friendliest he has had on his campaign tour.

CHIPPEWA FALLS WILL KEEP ITS COMMISSION

By Associated Press
Chippewa Falls—A petition filed two weeks asking for a vote on the question of abandoning the commission form of city government for the aldermanic form, was rejected Wednesday as not having sufficient signatures. Though there were more names on the list filed than signs required for an election many of the signers requested that their names be withdrawn thus reducing the number below the legal requirement.

The automobile, in which the Diaderichs were driving skidded in the gravel and turned over, killing the woman almost instantly.

CITY QUIET AS WAHABIS OCCUPY HOLY CITY MECCA

Cairo, Egypt—The Wahabi tribesmen, enemies of the Hashimite dynasty in the Hedjaz, under pressure from whom King Hussein abdicated in favor of his son, Ali, have entered Mecca, the holy city of the Islamic world. The situation is quiet and there have been no excesses on the part of the occupying forces.

Zeppelin's Cabin Touches Earth at Lakehurst at 9:55 A. M. Today

FOUGHT GALES 24 HOURS: Wonder Craft Looks Like Silver-gilded Christmas Tree Ball in Clouds

By Associated Press
Airdrome, Lakehurst, N. J.—The giant Zeppelin, ZR-3 reposed in her berth at the naval air station at Lakehurst at 10:45 A. M. Wednesday. Immediately that she touched earth her navigating officers and crew disembarked. Officers climbed into her hull and cabin with mechanics to begin an inspection of the gas bag's duraluminum structure and moorings.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship, and president of the Zeppelin Co., jubilantly declared as his feet touched the concrete floor of the airdrome:

"Gentlemen, a new world's record—5,006 miles of continuous flight."

"The first part of our voyage was fine," Dr. Eckener continued. "The last part was full of heavy weather. From 8 A. M. Tuesday to 5 A. M. Wednesday we battled against the weather with a velocity of 55 to 60 miles per hour."

LARGEST EVER MADE
It was 80 hours and 45 minutes since she sailed from Friedrichshafen, Germany, bound for this country with 28 Germans and 4 Americans and destined for delivery at this station as the largest dirigible ever constructed and flown.

Her nonstop flight was estimated by officers of this station at 5,000 miles, the previous records were 4,500 miles set by the French dirigible Dixmude in 1923 and 3,800 miles, set by the Zeppelin L-59 during the World war.

She appeared to be critically surveying the broad expanse of level beneath her, being particularly about where she brought her gilded self to rest.

Thousands of persons lined the main highway leading into the field. Motor cars were parked in squadrons by the roadside. Excited groups of officers and civilians scattered about the airdrome rushed to the point where the signal bearers were heading.

Four hundred sailors and marines equipped with landing tackle marched on the field with their officers, ready to deploy along the drag ropes. Motor cars laden with heavy tackle and heroic letters in blue and canvas were made ready to indicate the spot chosen for the landing.

The cabin of the giant craft came lightly to rest upon the earth at Lakehurst field at 9:55 A. M. She made a beautiful landing appearing over the northern edge of this naval air station at 9:16 A. M. She drove straight over the airdrome to the far edge of the field where she headed around and skirted the station for a quarter of its circumference before nosing downward into the breeze and coming to a stop before the airdrome.

She looked like a silver-gilded ball on a Christmas tree as she settled downward head on. She came so slowly that she looked like an inanimate object, suspended by some invisible force.

LaFollette Will Not Be Decisive Factor In West, Lawrence Claims

Electoral Vote of Wisconsin Senator Will Be Less Than Roosevelt's in 1912, Survey Shows

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.
(This is the first of two dispatches analyzing the trend of political sentiment in the states from Illinois to the Pacific, written after a visit by David Lawrence to virtually all the states in that region in a trip consuming thirty days of actual investigation.)

Midwest America—Crossing the political divide from the agricultural west to the industrial east, with three weeks of the campaign still ahead, the territory left behind may yet show some changes here and there but fundamentally the lines of battle are drawn and the tide of prejudice or favor, as the case may be, has set in.

Four conclusions, however, can be drawn at this time without much expectation on the part of the writer that subsequent developments in the west area will upset his analysis.

First, Senator Robert M. LaFollette has not been and will not be the decisive factor in the coming election so far as the west is concerned.

Second, the electoral vote of LaFollette will be less than that of Colonel Roosevelt in 1912 when 58 electoral votes.

Third, in several states LaFollette has taken away so many Democratic votes that he is in effect the ally of President Coolidge because Coolidge pluralities seem certain to result from the big defection of Democrats to the third party ticket.

Fourth, LaFollette will not get enough votes to throw the election into the house of representatives for decision unless John W. Davis shows a greater strength than President Coolidge in the principal eastern states. In that case in all probability the drift in the direction of Davis would insure not merely a deadlock but a Democratic victory because the east as a rule is not so hotly generally of the same political mind.

COTTRELL'S BODY IS FOUND AFLOAT

Search which has been carried on for about ten days to recover the body of Harold Cottrell of Menasha, who was drowned in Lake Poygan while hunting, was rewarded Wednesday. The body was found shortly before noon floating in the lake near Richards point and was removed from the water. It is being conveyed to the Sorenson undertaking parlors at Neenah where arrangements will be made for burial.

Cottrell's skull was found floating on the lake upside down with a hole in the ball. Relatives dragged the lake for several days to find him but finally gave up, deciding to wait until the body came to the surface. The exact manner in which he was drowned has not been learned.

Student Body Backs Demand With Strike

By Associated Press
Clemson, S. C.—Approximately 550 members of the student body of Clemson college, the state agricultural and mechanical college of South Carolina, are on strike Wednesday, as a result of the refusal of college officials to comply with demands of the students which were contained in a petition which they presented to the president of the college Tuesday afternoon. The chief reason of the strike was given as the refusal to grant the reinstatement of R. E. (Butch) Hoodman, president of the senior class, for one year, following his trial on a charge of drinking, that food of better quality and of sufficient quantity be served in the mess hall of the school, and that J. D. Holcombe, mess officer, be asked to resign.

RELIGION IS BASE OF REFORM RATHER THAN LAW, COOLIDGE

President Places Reliance in Moral Code Before Legislative Action

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Reliance upon religion rather than law for reform was emphasized Wednesday by President Coolidge, speaking at the unveiling here of a statue to Francis Asbury, "pioneer bishop of the Methodist-Episcopal church in America."

"We cannot depend upon the government," the president declared, "to do the work of religion. An act of congress may indicate that a reform is being or has been accomplished but it does not itself bring about a reform. The government of a country never gets ahead of the religion of a country."

Religion was described by the president as the foundation of this government. "It is a result of the preaching of Bishop Asbury, his associates and other religious organizations," he declared, "that our country has developed so much freedom."

"It is well to remember this," he added, "when we are seeking for social reforms. Of course we can help to restrain the vicious and furnish a fair degree of security and protection by legislation and police control, but the real reforms which society in these days is seeking will come as a result of our religious convictions, or they will not come at all."

"There is no way by which we can substitute the authority of law for the virtue of man. Peace, justice, humanity, charity—these cannot be legislated into being. They are the result of a divine grace."

PHONE RATE HEARING IS ADJOURNED TO OCT. 28

gin. We want enough to protect the public by building up a satisfactory reserve."

Accuracy of the valuation of $567,217 is placed on the Appleton plant figures submitted to the commission was questioned by Mr. Benton in his examination conducted for the special committee of the chamber of commerce. He said these figures contained about $39,000 representing property used for toll line and business outside of Appleton and for district offices. These ought to be prorated and not used as the basis of computing local revenue, he said. Mr. McEniry admitted that his contention was true but declared the figures represented a book value and that valuation as of the present would be much higher. The valuation was carried in this way merely for convenience of accounting, he said, and an inventory would bring the figures approximately 25 per cent higher.

WANTS REVALUATION

In arguing this same question later, City Attorney Bosser said he favored a revaluation of the Appleton utility

MODEL TOWN

Out of 40 years of seclusion comes Mrs. Elizabeth Ollafer, 85, known about Irvington, N. J., as a reclus. With the announcement that the 170 acre estate upon which she has lived in a little cabin will be built into a "model town" as an object lesson to the surrounding cities.

so there would be no further guesswork as to the basis of earnings. He intimated that he would bring this matter before the city council and that a request probably will be made of the commission to make a new appraisal of the plant. Both Mr. McEniry and Mr. Krizek predicted that there would be a much higher value, with corresponding right to greater earnings.

Objection was raised by Mr. Bosser and Mr. Benton to filing of petitions with the commission signed by about 500 Appleton subscribers expressing approval of the rate increase. Mr. McDonald sustained the objection, declaring that they would be accepted only if some of the signers were present at the hearing to testify concerning the method of obtaining the signatures. Mr. Krizek explained that these were represented only as an endorsement of the increase and merely to show that there had been general consultation with users of the service.

USE TWO SYSTEMS

What appeared to be discrepancies in figures submitted to local people and those given the railroad commission were cleared up by company officials. These referred to return on investment and depreciation. It was shown that maintenance of the Milwaukee office is prorated among the various local plants for purposes of rate computation but that in reports to the railroad commission all the general office account is carried as Milwaukee investment. This also applied to a difference of 2 per cent in depreciation, since no depreciation is taken in the state for the general office, stores and supplies in Milwaukee.

Considerable questioning ensued when Mr. Benton and Mr. Bosser endeavored to learn how much money went from the Appleton company in to the reserve fund of Wisconsin Telephone company, how much was used and how much was left. Mr. McEniry declared that a record is kept of what is spent out of the reserve for repairs or enlargements of the Appleton utility but he could not tell how much of the local money was left in the fund. He said the money laid aside now should not be used logically until about 1930 or 1935 for replacements but voiced the belief that most of the money appropriated here already had been used up. The depreciation of 7 per cent is a composite figure and is believed to be sufficient to guarantee that the plant will be kept in a good serviceable condition. Experience of the company shows the life of the plant to be 14 years. There is no attempt to make up, through the income, any reserve which was lacking in earlier years when not enough was deducted, he said. The commission was asked to determine whether the reserve might be too much, and the company was asked to submit more figures on the amounts set aside and used, the reason for the computation at 7 per cent and the accounting method by which the replacement period is placed at 14 years.

EXPECT LOSSES

It was shown in a report submitted by the company that out of 5,390 telephones now in use here a few losses were expected when the increase

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and lazy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the water in your body is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scales and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year. adv.

came and that subscribers perhaps would request a new classification which would give them a line with more parties and a lower rate. This was challenged because in 1920 there were no losses when the rates were raised and the number of telephones has increased each year. This was speculative and the company was asked to submit at the next hearing experience from other states if none is available for Wisconsin. J. D. Steele said he believed there would be little reduction of classifications and no losses if the increase were granted. Mr. McEniry contended there would be a difference of 50 cents in fee as compared with 25 cents under the 1920 rates.

Opinions of experts that the greater the number of telephones to which the subscriber has access, the higher the rate, led to a questioning of the similarity of rates in Green Bay and Appleton under the increase with approximately 9,500 phones at the former and 5,890 at the latter. Mr. McEniry said the free DePore service to Green Bay, with 1,800 stations was to be discontinued and that the difference between the two cities is made up by the lower residence rate in Appleton. He testified also that the 5-cent rate to Neenah is not a paying proposition and answered Mr. Bosser in the negative as to establishing this service from Appleton to Kaukauna and Little Chute.

1.75 PER CENT EARNING

Mr. Matthews dealt largely with intricate technical matters in his examinations, principally the method of apportioning the Milwaukee office to the outlying plants, the inventory and depreciation basis, proposed plant additions here, the basis of paying taxes to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., salvage credits and rental of telephones to connecting companies. He asked why the reserve should not be a sinking fund like that of other companies. J. T. Quinlan, district manager, was put on the stand to explain how much of the Appleton plant might be classed as distinct rather than local equipment. Mr. Matthews showed several times that there is a marked difference between computation methods in this state and those of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which is allied with this utility.

The statement submitted by the company with comparisons of revenue and expenses under the present and proposed rates showed a net earning of $10,093.50 at present rates on a valuation of $567,217.16, or 1.73 per cent on the investment, and $45,346.33 under the new rates on a valuation of $619,907.16, or 7.32 per cent. The latter valuation includes extensions which are planned by the company. If these additions were made with the old rates in force, the return would be only 1.03 per cent, it was shown.

Oneida — Emanuel Powless almost lost his team of horses in the quicksand in Duck Creek last week. He drove down to the creek to water his horses and they waded to one side, getting stuck in the sand. UNEMPLOYMENT IN ENGLAND

At the end of the World war the British government, a coalition administration headed by Lloyd George, granted a pension to the unemployed. The situation was critical, something had to be done. The system will be continued during this winter when the government will pay a regularly weekly wage to more than one million persons for doing nothing. Compared with a few years ago, there is a ten per cent decrease in idleness, or, positively stated, a ten per cent increase in employment. The pension system was continued by the conservative administration, headed by Bonar Law and Stanley Baldwin, and by the MacDonald Laborite administration. This is the fiftieth year in which it has been in operation.

At present, according to information from London, the plan has ceased to work honestly. Many workmen it is said are voluntarily idle. Some are willing to remain idle on fairly good pay. In the main, however, "the unemployment dole" is a necessary evil. It was necessary in England's case to prevent possibly revolution. At its best, though, it is having a pernicious effect. To a considerable extent it is demoralizing. Unemployment may be one of the leading issues in the next British election. The liberal and conservative parties desire to restore normal conditions at the earliest possible time, and it is not improbable that the Laborite party is, at least, in its leadership, of the same opinion.

Business is improving all over Europe, with the exception of Russia, and the recovery appears to be substantial and permanent. The solution of unemployment and discontent problems lies in economic measures.

THE CARAVAN

By way of London we hear that an English company is to operate bus lines between Bagdad and Persia and between Constantinople and Persia. The Bagdad-Teheran trip will take three days, and fare for the ride, hotel accommodations and meals will be $140.

In other words, the motor bus will supersede the caravan at the fringe of modern progress, as the railroad train did the covered wagon of pioneering days. The horse will retire gradually before the gasoline engine.

Were de Quincey alive today he might write us a new set of essays on "The Poetry of Motion." He thought the stage-coach and romping horses were poetic in their progress. The rhythm of perfectly adjusted machinery would illustrate to him true poetry of motion. Its future is almost unlimited.

THAT CHICAGO STADIUM

The middle west looks up to Chicago. It expects to find in the interior's metropolis both inspiration and instruction, as from a big brother who knows no obstacle his strength cannot bow over. Sometimes the middle west is disappointed, but in the dedication of its great classic stadium on the lake front last week Chicago met and fulfilled the promise of its size and progressiveness.

Football stadiums are restricted to the use of one sport four or five times a year, their choice greens carefully preserved for a few tests between picked teams of collegians. No such venture is this. Seating 60,000 on stone steps beneath twin temple colonnades in the manner of the Greeks, Chicago's new public amphitheatre was built for the people. It is a true year-round municipal institution, at the service of the civic, health and recreational activities of an entire city.

It will draw to the lakefront for exercise and competition, for civic assembly or for athletic spectacle, thousands who have never attended or entered a similar event before. It will encourage, as the ancient Greek stadia encouraged, that all-round development of the body which should accompany, and alone can properly serve and preserve, the building of the mind.

Incidentally the Chicago amphitheatre made possible recently the first American game of polo on a popular scale, presented to a tremendous audience of "common folks" instead of the little society gatherings ordinarily vouchsafed the chance to view this sport of kings. The civic stadium is a great democratizer.

WAYS OF THE MOVIE

Movies are advancing. Every year they give their followers new values. Sometimes these values are found in scenic settings that transport the viewers to far away interesting places. Sometimes they are found in backgrounds that reproduce history with a thrilling vividness that is beyond the ordinary imagination assisted only by the printed page. Sometimes it is in refinements of plots and refinements of acting.

But the movies still have a long way to go before they attain the standards of a real art—standards such as have been established in literature, or in painting or in sculpture. Even the best of them are marred by annoying crudities of thought or execution that detract from the consistent excellence demanded of works that are to endure through times of progress and of change. They serve well as passing amusement—as do many hastily written best-sellers—but where will they be 10, 25 or 50 years from now?

The crudities, the inconsistencies, the lugged-in laughs or punches that clutter the pictured plot or rob it of its illusion are due largely to the newness of the movies and the rather complicated way in which they are produced. It is a case of too many cooks—many of them untrained experimenters—and the lack of an experienced, guiding, testing, critical chef.

When an author writes a book, creating out of his imagination a story worth the telling, he builds up his plot in orderly fashion, develops his characters with thoughtful care and mounts to his climax through expertly arranged episodes. He knows what he is doing and why he is doing it from start to finish. His completed work is a well-balanced whole product, from which little can be taken and to which little can be added without destroying its artistic value.

He sends this to a publisher. The publisher in accepting the story turns it over to his editor. The latter does not think of tearing it to pieces and rewriting it according to his own ideas. He may edit it to eliminate technical flaws and he may suggest desirable changes to the author, but this is as far as he goes. The story remains the work of the author.

In the movies, on the contrary, the author appears to be only a necessary evil. The scenarist tears the manuscript to pieces to satisfy his own ideas of picture arrangement. The director then proceeds to rearrange everything to suit his particular fancy. The producer may impose fresh suggestions on top of these, and to may the players and the camera man. And in the end it is a wise author who recognizes his own brain child.

When the movies are produced by a combination consisting of gifted author, sensible producer, wise editor and skilled craftsmen all sticking to their own particular lines—then, and only then, may we expect pictures of real artistic merit, pictures that will rank with literature and painting.

THE OIL LAMP

JUST a little old holder that's made out of glass and a top-piece that's blown of the same
There once was the day when the oil lamp was class but it's passed, now days out of the game
In years long ago, grandma climbed up the stairs with the oil lamp and lighted it in her hand. She'd shadow her way 'mid the flickers and glares, as the old folks will well understand.
At dusk, when the sunlight was fading away, the oil lamp would answer the need. It flared and glared at the end of the day so that grandma and granddad could read.
But now it is gone to the use-to-be lands. More modern are lights that we know. So down in the cellar the old oil lamp stands, just an echo of long long ago.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician And Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

ALIVE BUT NOT BREATHING

It used to be the rule and still is in some hospitals that a nurse might report to the physician that a patient had "stopped breathing." It was left for the physician to pronounce the man dead, after an examination.

Persons who have stopped breathing are not always dead, however. In cases of electric shock, lightning or natural gas poisoning, opium or morphine poisoning, gasoline engine exhaust gas poisoning, drowning, and other forms of asphyxiation, there is always a chance of restoration to life and health even after the lapse of hours, a chance which should never be denied the victim, at least never with the sanction of a physician.

Unlike the gradual failure of respiration in the termination of exhausting disease, the cessation of breathing in these cases is in itself the main cause of death, and it should be kept in mind that in these conditions, once the breathing is restored the organs are sound and life can go on as though nothing had happened. This is the reason why artificial respiration, of course by the most effective method, the prone pressure or manual method, should be kept up for hours if necessary desisting only when the victim resumes breathing or rigor mortis sets in. The wisdom of this becomes more apparent when we consider that life has been restored in many cases after prolonged efforts. Willis Macleachlan, a Toronto electrical engineer reports a case of successful resuscitation from electric shock after 2 1/2 hours of Schafer's manual respiration, and of a man submerged for from 15 to 20 minutes, taken out of the water and resuscitated by this method of artificial respiration after an hour and five minutes. Of course the victims were not moved from the spot until they had been resuscitated. A victim should never be moved to a hospital or anywhere else while there is hope, unless the artificial respiration is kept up constantly on the way without a moment's interruption. Stopping the effort for even a minute while transporting the victim is unworkable.

Dr. J. H. Wilms of Cincinnati tells of a case of lead poisoning. Artificial respiration was kept up for nine hours, by operators working in shifts, and the man was finally resuscitated. Dr. Wilms believes that patients are sometimes allowed to die from ethyl or chloroform anaphylaxis when they might be resuscitated by artificial respiration kept up long enough.

In severe cases of wood alcohol poisoning, now notorious enough as a cause of blindness if the victim survives, artificial respiration and the administration of oxygen combined with carbon dioxide is almost specific treatment, according to Dr. Yan dell Henderson of Yale university. Unlike ordinary grain alcohol, this deadly wood alcohol is not burned in the body, but tends to accumulate in a listless state in some vital bootlegger from day to day, until enough to destroy the optic nerve brings on blindness. It is eliminated very slowly, and almost entirely through the lungs. The administration of the oxygen and carbon dioxide mixed increases the volume of breathing four or five times and hastens the elimination of the poison in that ratio. The same treatment restores consciousness in half an hour or so to persons comatose from inhaling gasoline fumes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Heart Murmurs

What is meant by heart murmurs and why does one hear his own circulation? The noise in my head nearly drives me wild at times, especially when alone and have been told it is the circulation.

(R. E. S.)
Answer—Owing to your relapse into the passive mode I don't understand just what you have Ben told. Murmurs are musical sounds heard by the physician listening to the heart, and they occur in various conditions, both acute and insidious. Head noises are often due to disturbances of circulation. You should consult a physician for careful examination.

Canning Compound

Is Mrs. Rice's canning compound harmful to use in canning vegetables? (Mrs. F. J.)

Answer—Yes. Why embalm the vegetables? I think it would be dangerous to eat vegetables which are in such condition when canned that they have to use chemicals to preserve them. Select only fresh, clean vegetables and insure that your canning is properly done, and you'll need no chemical preservative in them.

Sewing and Vision

I have a very easy position where I sit and sew nearly all day. For the last few weeks I find I have dizzy spells, and I wonder whether I am straining my eyes. I am away from the window which necessitates using a desk lamp. (Miss W. J. C.)

Answer—Probably not. If the lamp is within your field of vision as you sit sewing it is bad for your eyes. The lamp should be far enough behind and above to be beyond the field of vision.

Fish and Milk

Please advise whether it is harmful to eat fish and drink milk at the same time. (S. L. B.)

Answer—Certainly not if the combination suits your taste.

LITTLE DIGNITY CHASERS

"Take your feet off this car seat."

An Appleton member of the Daughters of the Revolution thinks we should revive the old Puritanism custom of naming our children Piety, Charity, Experience, and by other names that are full of meaning. Some parents might name their children "Circumstance," because they are things over which they have no control.

It is also surprising that no automobile or motorcycle manufacturers have as yet obtained a patent on the same name, Circumstance.

They Are Notoriously Bad

The fact that auto engines are not so reliable as they once were can be proved by most any mother with an attractive daughter. She'll testify that engines invariably break down mostly at midnight.

The news that the price of cotton stockings will go skyhigh will have no effect upon Appleton girls.

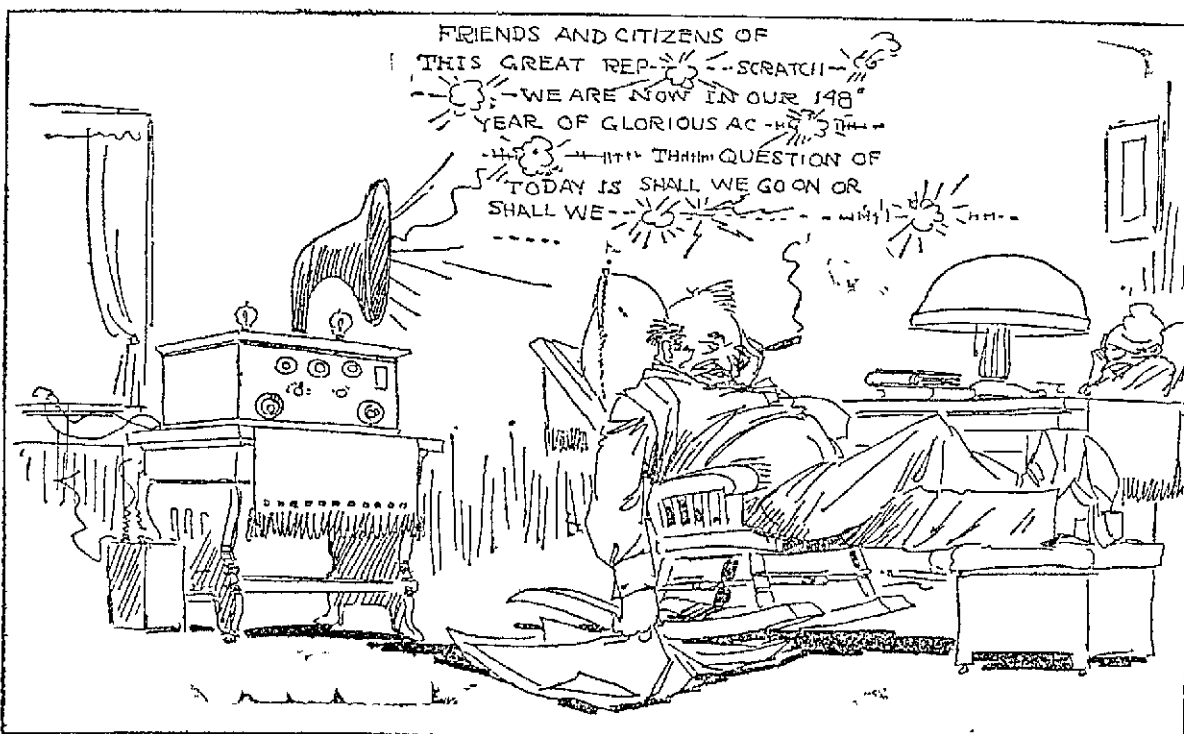

No wonder everybody wants to be president. His pay is not income taxable. How would LaFollette feel if he were deprived of the privilege of paying the income tax which he helped create?

WORTH CONSIDERING

Appleton will be represented by a new assemblyman in legislature this coming winter. Like his brother, he is a Miller. When the old law making mill starts grinding again, we suggest that the two Millers of Outagamie consider what ought to be done about the women who wear boudoir caps while driving about the streets in a motor car.

The speaker of the next legislature will have to watch his step, or rather his gavel, when the "gentlemen from Outagamie-co" ask for the floor. One is Mueller and the other is Miller. Of course neither is elected as yet, but they are not worrying about it.

FOR a patterned shirt at the price there's nothing we recommend more strongly than these Eagle Shirts—a glove-soft fabric in fast-color prints approximating expensive weaves. A shirt that you can't beat in cut or workmanship—snugger than the ordinary make around the shoulders, fuller and longer in the body—center-plaited to the bottom—six-buttoned—lock-stitched (an ear-mark of the finest tailoring). Ask for it by the name of the fabric.

"TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR"

Wales Can Grasp
American Jokes

A story is related in the newspapers about a meeting between Will Rogers, the comedian of the Folies, and the Prince of Wales. They both played polo, though on opposite sides, and later met at a dinner, where Rogers was urged to say a few funny things, meaning to poke fun at the royal visitor.

The prince, as a matter of fact, seems to have come out of this banquet scene without any scars and laughed heartily at the jokes of our premier comedian in America. All of which goes to show that, even the heir of the throne of England is most human and capable not only of understanding, but appreciating an American joke as well. Over there some of the more scholarly of the punsters say that the Americans are not funny; that our brand of humor is stale and incomplete and that it only forces a laugh for the sake of being cordial. The plain fact is that the most interesting side to English humor and one would be seriously wanting in proper appraisal of the subject to attempt to prove that all English comedy is impossible. When the prince and the comedian met about the festival board it was a rare occasion and not the least interesting was the fair haired young man who was a stranger in a strange land apt to be bored by being made the object of a stranger's jokishness.

LEARNS TO TYPE LATE IN LIFE

M. G. Youmans, Cincinnati 81 years old is learning to operate a typewriter in one of the classes at the Central Y. M. C. A. at Cincinnati.

Youmans goes to school every day and enjoys being in the class with 30 other students. He says he does not want to learn typewriting to become a stenographer, but since his hands are somewhat shaky on account of age, he can no longer write a steady hand so he will write letters on the typewriter in the future.

A Secret Shampoo

A glint-creator — I can't tell you why

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I have found something wonderful in a shampoo. Just because I am famous, the greatest of chemists bring their discoveries to me.

My hair is like a halo. The thousands who meet me daily on the stage and elsewhere wonder at its luster. But a year ago that very hair was dull.

The difference lies in a new type shampoo. The laboratory I consider the greatest in the world spent years to perfect it. They bought it to me last spring, and that shampoo has multiplied the beauty of my hair.

I cannot tell you what this shampoo contains. The makers will not tell me all. It contains products of fruit which benefit the hair. It contains cleansers which clean without drying, and elements which make my hair glow like a halo. But I don't know what they are.

They sent me this shampoo to try. I was amazed at its results. It multiplied the beauty of my hair.

Then I paid them to supply it to 1,000 people for a test. And I believe that every user asked for more. Of all the

Report Mrs. Hamilton Will Accept
First Offer of City
for Bridge Lot

Kaukauna—An adjourned meeting of the common council was held Tuesday evening in the council chambers. A resolution was adopted giving the Wisconsin Telephone Co. the privilege of putting its new poles along the streets as specified in plans and blue prints submitted to the council. The poles and anchors will be placed in the least objectionable place or position and the company is authorized to deal directly with the abutting property owners regarding their positions.

J. W. LeFevre, city attorney, reported that Mrs. Robert Hamilton has decided to accept the offer of $700 made by the city for a short strip of property on the bank of the transportation canal which will form part of the site for the north side approach to the proposed new bridge. Mrs. Hamilton had recently refused to accept that amount after having agreed some time ago that she would sell at that price and as a result the council started action at its last meeting for condemnation proceedings.

Mr. Hamilton, however, demanded the right to retain the old house which now occupies the lot and the council made no objection since it was not considered worth to the city what it would cost to have the building removed.

VOTE DOWN SCHOOL GROUNDS CLEANUP

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The junior class of the high school held a meeting in the school Monday afternoon. The proposition brought before the class by the president, Marie Henny, was that the class should get together and clean the school grounds, some night or nights this week. However, the class did not approve of the proposition, due to the fact that it would be utterly impossible to clean the grounds unless all of the high school classes and all of the grades cooperated to keep them clean after the rubbish was once removed. This would be a difficult task, and the outcome would be that the cleanup would be apparent for only a short time, thereby making it hardly worthwhile.

STRANGER DROPS DEAD ON SIDEWALK IN MENASHA "LOOP"

Marks on Clothing May Lead to Identification of Dead Man

Menasha—An unidentified man, apparently a laborer dropped dead at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening on the sidewalk in front of Al Lenz coffee shoppe on Main street opposite Menasha hotel. His body was conveyed to the undertaking rooms of Menasha Furniture company.

Upon entering the coffee shoppe the stranger ordered a steak and cup of coffee which he paid for in advance. He drank the coffee and ordered another cup, but before it arrived he was seized with a coughing spell and went out on the sidewalk where he dropped dead.

Chief of Police James Lyman, who was passing in his automobile, went to his rescue, but he was beyond help. He had nothing in his pockets to identify him and had spent his last coin in buying his supper. His hat and suit were purchased at a West Bend store, and it is possible this fact may lead to his identification. It is thought also that he might have been employed by Menasha contractors, who have just completed paving contract in that part of the state.

The man was about 55 years old, 6 feet tall and weighed close to 200 pounds. He had a black mustache and his left elbow has the appearance of having been injured at one time. His right arm is tattooed.

U. S. MUST GET IN COURT, SPEAKER SAYS

Audience in Methodist Church Favors International Agreement

Neenah—In his address on "International Relations" at the Methodist church Monday evening, Paul Harvey of New York, well known editor, spoke in favor of a world court. He appeared here under the auspices of the League of Women Voters. His talk followed a supper which was well attended.

The speaker said that regardless of what form the league of nations or world court might take, the United States should be a part of it, if for no other reason than from an economic standpoint.

He said in ten years if the United States failed to assume its rightful responsibilities in world affairs we should see the entire world arrayed against it commercially. At the close of his talk, in order to get an expression of his audience, he requested those in favor of this country participating in some kind of an international arrangement to raise their hands and the majority responded.

WIFE MUST LIVE WITH "IN-LAWS"

By Associated Press

Honolulu—A woman is not justified in deserting her husband because he compels her to live with his parents, according to a recent decision by the territorial supreme court.

In an opinion reversing the decision of a lower court, the supreme court justices held that Kiu Yin-fong, Chinese, was not entitled to a divorce from William Fong on the ground that he failed to support her.

Evidence adduced at the trial indicated that William's wife had deserted him because he could not provide her with a home other than the one he occupied with his parents. She then charged him with non-support because he refused to support her while she was living with friends.

"While the taking of a wife to the home of his parents," the court held, "is perhaps not the best and ideal method of supplying her with a home, it cannot be said, as a matter of law, that that fact alone justified the wife in deserting her husband."

RAISE MONEY TO HELP MOTORCOP INJURED ON DUTY

Friends Want to Pay Off Mortgage and Keeg Family in Food

Menasha—Friends of Joseph Martell, former motorcycle officer of Menasha, who has been at Theda Clark hospital for several weeks with a badly fractured ankle which he injured while in the performance of his duties, have started a fund for him with which to pay off a mortgage on his home and keep his wife and small children in food and warm clothing while he is incapacitated.

The fund is growing rapidly notwithstanding very little solicitation has been done. The money is being turned over to John F. DeCaro, city clerk, and Ira H. Clough and already amounts to more than $200. The subscriptions so far have been mostly small amounts of personal friends. The Menasha Eagles contributed $25 as an organization almost as soon as the fund was started. It is understood other organizations are planning to follow their example at their next meetings.

"WHITE INDIANS" LIVE SECLUDEDLY

People of Panama Jungles Show Little Interest in Civilization

New York—Three jungle children—"white Indians"—brought to the world's center of civilization, have shown no interest in the unusual sights about them.

Tall buildings, subways, rushing automobiles, luxurious beds, white men for servants, do not change their staring gaze.

They are members of a group of eight Indians brought from the Richard O. Marsh expedition.

For months they will be like gold-fish in a bowl, a germ under a microscope being optically dissected by bearded members of scientific organizations.

Instead of the swish of breezes through palm leaves they hear the purr of electric fans and the rumble of high-tension civilization.

Ostracized in their own land because of the pink tint of their skin, the whiteness of their hair, they are followed and jostled here by curious crowds.

They can't understand it. They don't even try. In silence, they stare, unmoved, as puzzled as the curious mobs who rush taxicabs and hotel lobbies for a sight of these strange aborigines from Panama.

Marguerite, Ato and Chepu, the three white Indians, do not talk among themselves, or to the five bronzed members of the troupe.

The whites are not interested. They merely follow directions.

Marguerite has learned to use a powder puff and occasionally she weeps tears of temperament. She is absorbing civilization rapidly, but the two boys remain stoic.

In their luxurious rooms at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Marguerite, Ato and Chepu are the most lonesome children in the whole world. There is no place for them to frolic and play.

Instead of being scorned, as they were in their jungle village, they will be trailed every time they step from seclusion.

The happiest moment of their time in New York was when little Chepu first looked into a large mirror in his room at the Waldorf, and saw himself in his funny American clothes—funny to the boy who never before had had a stitch on his back.

GRAASS, SNIDER ADDRESS ROTARY

Judge Henry Graass of Green Bay, and Claude M. Snider of this city were the speakers at the Rotary club luncheon Tuesday noon at Conway hotel. Both talked on a code of ethics in business, which was the theme of the meeting.

Judge Graass reminded his hearers that they are living in a remarkable age, and that honesty in men and newspapers is needed more than ever. He mentioned the world airplane flight and the new United States zeppelin's flight across the ocean as indications of the progress that is being made.

Mr. Snider voiced his belief that every business should have a written code of ethics just as a code is found framed and hung in the establishment of every Rotarian. Most carities are following this rule and the practice is being adopted all over the world, he said. Business will be much improved ethically if this plan is used.

LARGE TRACTS IN FLORIDA OWNED BY NORTHERNERS

Capitalists Have Set Aside Lands As Game Preserves and Summer Homes

Tallahassee, Fla.—Land in area one-fifth the size of Leon county, site of the Florida state capital, is controlled in territory adjacent to this city, largely in this county, by northern capitalists whose combined wealth runs into the hundreds of millions of dollars. They have purchased the land and set it aside for game preserves and for winter homes, according to records revealed in connection with the state's centennial celebration Nov. 8-15, which comes simultaneously with the opening of the hunting season.

Among the large holders of property in this section are George F. Baker, president of the board of directors of the National City Bank, New York, with 12,000 acres; Harry Foxworth, 14,000 acres; Percy Clubb, New York, 12,000; Carl Fleischman, 6,000; Eric Fleischman 10,000; George A. Foote, Montclair, N. J., 3,000; A. B. Lapaky, Hartford, Conn., 10,000; Louis Thompson, Philadelphia, 10,000, and the estate of the late Dr. Tennant Ronalds of Scotland, 12,000.

Miss Frances Griscom, of Philadelphia, former amateur woman golfer champion of the United States, is another well-known holder of lands in this section. She is one of America's leading woman field shots. Another woman landowner is Mrs. A. H. Tiers, of Montclair, N. J., whose husband's scientific experiments affected the sulphur supply of the world. The Griscom estate includes 10,000 acres of woodland, lake and meadow, lying between the Dixie Highway and the Meridian road, and is one of the best known quail preserves in the country. The Tiers place covers 5,000 acres.

UPPER CLASS SHUNS MINISTRY, IS CLAIM

Birmingham—The Bishop of Birmingham has expressed himself as disappointed because there is a decided dropping off in the number of candidates for ordination from the upper classes. Writing to his flock in the Diocesan Magazine, he says "We are not getting the sons of our well-to-do people to come forward for ordination as we expect that the clergy are poorly paid." The bishop adds, "and have not great prospects of worldly advancement. But it will be sad indeed if the sense of vocation does not run through England as a whole. In olden days it was counted a glory by our best families to give at least one boy to the ministry."

"It is true that the clergy are poorly paid," the bishop adds, "and have not great prospects of worldly advancement. But it will be sad indeed if the sense of vocation does not run through England as a whole. In olden days it was counted a glory by our best families to give at least one boy to the ministry."

"Our young men only need to be shown," the bishop concludes, "what a splendid life of adventure for Christ the clergyman may lead in order to be attracted to the sacrifice of their lives to the evangelizing and edifying of God's people."

CZAR'S COUSIN LIVING SIMPLY

Grand Duke Alexander Says He Is "Living With Spirits" Now

Paris—Grand Duke Alexander, who, under the old order of events, might one day have ruled all Russia, has turned his back on things material.

Today the murdered czar's cousin, next in line of succession to the Russian throne, is living in the "spirit world."

The man who once commanded the Russian fleets, and who was the center of brilliant social groups where ever he went, has renounced all worldly splendor.

His many honorary titles have been forgotten. And his medal-bedecked gold braided uniform has given way to a simple sack suit and soft collar.

A few years ago he might have dreamed of being Russia's political "savior." But these fantasies have fled long since.

Today he confides his country's destiny to the spirits beyond the grave. He aspires to be old Russia's "spiritual dictator." He wants to bring about its "spiritual resurrection."

Every day and for into the night, he sits for hours at his work table, covering pages of foolscap with "mes-sages" from the spirit world.

These later are communicated to his "disciples."

Today Alexander is recognized as one of Europe's greatest spiritualists. He is a devoted friend of Conan Doyle with whom he is in constant correspondence.

And he is planning a trip to America soon as a "bearer of a special message from the spirit world."

Many farmers bought them to feed to the pigs.

LARDNER BOUND TO GET AT LEAST A SMILE OR TWO

Humorist's "How to Write Short Stories" Possessed Real Kick

BY ELEANOR WING

Even if you are a regular Scrooge and swear you will never laugh again or are too serious minded to see any fun in laughing you will be compelled to chuckle at Ring Lardner's "How to Write Short Stories," published recently by Scribner. No one is immune from his fun or impervious to his good-humored joking.

But after you get all through laughing, the thought will come to you that there is a wealth of insight and canny wisdom underneath the rollicking surface, that a blindness goes into the portraits of the author's characters, and a benevolent criticism of American life is the underlying theme. Above all, you will be conscious of the veracity and sincerity that is apparent through out the book.

"The Golden Home-noon," a story of the attempt of two simple old people of the Victorian era to enjoy a trip into modernity with all its modernities, contains a pathos that brings tears. "A Caddy's Diary" is a shrewd analysis of humanity as it is portrayed on the golf course, and interspersed between the sidesplitting jokes, a homely moral about that matter of cheating. "Hogswogs" is a hilarious tale of baseball and the characters are as real as Americans can possibly be, talking in the language that is understood by every true native of this country. Though we do not all talk in the vernacular of the soil, it would be hard to find any American who could not understand it, most especially the vernacular of baseball. Incidents in the life of a prizefighter, humanity in New York and a mystery tale, all are jumbled together in this representative collection to show how much sided and widely acquainted this versatile interpreter of America as "Sne is spoke" is. Ring Lardner is called the most artistic murderer of the English language.

Perhaps the best illustration of the delightful nonsense that makes this book so really funny is this little summary prefatory to a story of a baseball player who wanted to do nothing but concoct word harmonies. You will be the wonder wizard of the twentieth century if you can detect a single suggestion of a baseball player or a lover of music in it.

MARCEL AND CURT LAST LONGER after a Golden Gilt Snapper

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

PRE-CIVIL WAR FICTION

Looking back to Civil war days most of us unconsciously assume that the people living in the decade just preceding the great conflict must have been occupied almost exclusively with the common struggle. We of this generation know that just before the World war none of us was thinking of a great world conflict; we were interested in auto or golf or baseball or fighting or boxing or dancing. But the Civil war was more clearly foreshadowed and it is assumed that people were thinking of its possibility almost to the exclusion of everything else during the ten years that preceded it.

Some color is given to this idea by a reading of the history of the times. Seaward called the struggle's over slavery the "irrepressible conflict." Long before the conflict actually came, the race Greeley's New York Tribune thundered editorials about the various national questions involved. John Brown led a raid on Harper's Ferry and was hanged by the government. The story of the years immediately preceding the Civil war is sprinkled with the incidents which we can now plainly see, inevitably led to the conflict.

NOT CONCERNED ABOUT WAR

But the people of that day were like the people of today—they liked to play hide and seek and gather data even on the edge of a volcano. The notice that the average citizen was very deeply concerned about the coming conflict or understood that it was coming is a mischievous one. To get a just view of what the people of that day—the average people—not a few officials in Washington—were thinking of we must go to one fiction of the day.

True it is that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was published in the 'fifties and had a big run showing that people were interested in slavery, but probably not one in ten thousand who read it saw fuel in it for a civil war. Most of the fiction of that decade which was enormously popular was of a curiously unwarlike nature.

There is "The Wide Wide World," for instance, by Susan Warner, that is published in 1850 and had an enormous run. No hint of war or the possibility of war in it. There is also "The Lamplighter" by Maria S. Cummins, a sort of Pollyanna story that is still read and that was a great favorite during the decade before the Civil war. It was published in 1854.

Beulah, still sold in paper covers by train cutters and a great favorite of our grandmothers was published in 1850. It is as far removed from the idea of Civil war as possible. So are "Tempest and Sun" and "Lore" by the same author, published in 1851 and 1852. In 1854, but written by a man who presented as a woman under the name of "M. J. Holmes," "The Coming of Amos," by Temple Bailey, and "Rose of the World" by Kathleen Norris have been the two best circulators among the books of fiction in Appleton Library last week. These two volumes have been popular since they first were received by the library and it is likely they will continue to be so until the authors offer new stories to their followers.

"The Coming of Amos," William J. Locke is one of the newer books that has been extremely popular with the public. Margaret Widdemer's "Claris Sees It Through" was followed eagerly when it ran serially in a magazine and it is just as popular now at the library.

"Indian Scout Tales" by Easton and "Yellie's Silver Mine" by Helen Hunt Jackson were the most popular books with the children last week. The Burgess animal stories also have had a large circulation.

One of the most popular biographies in the library is "The Real Sarah Bernhardt" by Basil Woon, as told to the author by Mme. Pierre Belton, wife of one of Sarah Bernhardt's lovers. Mr. Woon has availed himself of other materials not used before in biographies of the great actress. The volume is illustrated with rare photographs from Madame Bertone's collection.

The library has received National Geographic magazines dating back three years from Mrs. Edward Lehman, 1220 River rd.

NEW MAP OF COUNTY WILL BE READY BY NOV. 15

The new map of Outagamie co. which is being prepared by Herman J. Kamps, will be completed within a few weeks. Mr. Kamps has stated that all the towns have been surveyed and mapped except Oneida and Grand Chute. It is planned to have the map ready for distribution by Nov. 15.

"Peacock Feathers" by Temple Bailey and "Rose of the World" by Kathleen Norris have been the two best circulators among the books of fiction in Appleton Library last week. These two volumes have been popular since they first were received by the library and it is likely they will continue to be so until the authors offer new stories to their followers.

For Those Who Would Study Career Of Anatole France

ANATOLE FRANCE AND HIS WIFE IN HIS STUDY.

With the passing of Jacques Anatole Thiebaut, known to the world as Anatole France, there will be thousands of readers seeking to read books concerning the life and work of this contemporary master.

To these it is suggested that one of the best portraits to be had may be found in a recently published work, "The Opinions of Anatole France," (Knopf), a really remarkable piece of reporting on the part of Paul Gsell. In this the most modant and honest of his time and one of the kindest humorists of all time is shown at gatherings, pictured intimately expressing his views and revealing the processes of his argumentative method.

Another quite recent portrait is provided by James Lewis May in "Anatole France: The Man and His Work" (Dodd, Mead & Co.). In a biographical first part May concedes that he is dealing with a most difficult subject "because of his multitudinous interests and his bewilderingly rapid change of point of view."

In discussing the immortality of this great writer, poet, stylist, critic, philosopher, May believes it is shown at gatherings, pictured intimately expressing his views and revealing the processes of his argumentative method.

the rest"—that is, France will live because of his style, rather than what he said. May will find plenty to argue this point with him.

Another excellent study was done by Lewis Shanks, an American, and published some years ago in Chicago because, at the time, there was a superstition in New York that only Englishmen were capable of producing commentaries on French letters.

To all who would write or would study writing there is one of the greatest lessons to be found in France's criticism of his early work, "Jeanne D'Arc." It goes something like this:

"Beware of pastry! Pastry is factitious, adventurous. It is whipped cream that fails to hide the poverty of the cake. It is a hideous plaster garland trying to transform a garret into a palace. It renders the most beautiful pages precarious."

"In my early versions of Jeanne D'Arc I gave them pastry. I wanted to be picturesque. Be pitiless toward these stupidities! Today, they make me sick at heart."

France was one of his own most ruthless critics. He is pictured with shears turning printers' proof of his writing into jigsaw puzzles.

Also, he was a relentless searcher for opinion. He would rise grumbling in the morning, a philosophic question on the tip of his tongue. This he would ask of the chambermaid when she came to clean the room. Later he would ask the delivery man, the antique dealer, the horse painter and the book binder. At the end of a week he would be ready to write one of his inimitable papers.

The fact that the Chrysler Six is not only different from conventional cars, but is vastly superior has created a demand that has taxed the resources of a great organization.

WE OFFER SUBJECT TO ALLOTMENT $110,000,000 German External Loan 1924

Seven Per Cent. Gold Bonds

Dated October 15, 1924 Interest payable April 15 and October 15 Due October 15, 1949

NON-REDEEMABLE PRIOR TO MATURITY, EXCEPT FOR THE SINKING FUND

Sinking Fund, for this issue, $4,620,000 a year, payable monthly, beginning November 15, 1924; sufficient to retire annually one-twentyfifth of the issue at 105%

Bonds to be retired through the Sinking Fund by purchase, if obtainable at or below 105% and accrued interest or if not so obtainable, by redemption by lot at 105% and accrued interest, such accrued interest in either case to be paid otherwise than out of the Sinking Fund. The Bonds are to be redeemable for the Sinking Fund on October 15 of each year, commencing October 15, 1925.

Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100

Principal and interest payable in New York City at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. in United States gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any German taxes, present or future.

Doctor Luther, finance minister of Germany, has prepared, and the reparation commission and Owen D. Young, agent-general for reparation payments, have approved, the following summary from his statement dated October 10, 1924, copies of which may be had on application to the undersigned:

THE LOAN These Bonds are part of an International Loan to be issued for the purpose of carrying into effect the Plan of the First Committee of Experts appointed by the Reparation Commission, for the double purpose of ensuring currency stability in Germany and of financing, especially, deliveries in kind during the preliminary period of economic rehabilitation. The Loan is to be issued in Great Britain, France, Italy, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, Sweden, Germany and the United States of America in bonds of various currencies and for an amount estimated to be sufficient to yield in the aggregate a net sum equivalent at current rates of exchange, to approximately 800,000,000 Gold Marks (approximately $190,000,000).

SECURITY: The service of interest and amortization of the Loan is:

- (1) A direct and unconditional obligation of the German Government chargeable on all the assets and revenues of that Government.
- (2) A specific first charge on all payments provided for under the Dawes Plan to or for the account of the Agent-General for Reparation Payments, such charge being prior to reparation and other Treaty payments, which in turn have a specific precedence over the "controlled revenues," i.e., the gross revenues of the German Government derived from the customs and from the taxes on tobacco, beer and sugar, the net revenue of the German Government from the spirits monopoly and such tax (if any) as may hereafter be similarly assigned by the German Government in accordance with the terms of the final protocol of the London Conference. The "controlled revenues" are estimated as amounting annually to not less than 1,000,000,000 Gold Marks (approximately $240,000,000). The German Government may not create any further charge upon the controlled revenues ranking prior to or equally with the charge created in favor of the bonds of the Loan.

LONDON PROTOCOL In the London Protocol, Annex IV, Article 3, the Governments of Belgium, Great Britain (with the Governments of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India), France, Greece, Italy, Japan, Portugal, Rumania and Yugoslavia agreed as follows:

"In order to secure the service of the loan of 800 million gold marks contemplated by the Experts' Plan and in order to facilitate the issue of that loan to the public, the signatory Governments hereby declare that, in case sanctions have to be imposed in consequence of a default by Germany they will safeguard any specific securities which may be pledged to the service of the loan."

"The signatory Governments further declare that they consider the service of the loan as entitled to absolute priority as regards any resources of Germany so far as such resources may have been subjected to a general charge in favor of the said loan and also as regards any resources that may arise as a result of the imposition of sanctions."

At the London Conference, the Allied Governments adopted a resolution reading as follows:

"The Allied Governments, desiring that this loan should be successfully raised, and contemplating that the loan will be a first lien on the security pledged therein, will invite the Central Banks in their respective countries to use their good offices to facilitate the placing of the loan."

In connection with this resolution, and at the request of the Governments of Great Britain, France and Belgium, J. P. Morgan & Co., and their associates, have undertaken the issue of the American portion of the Loan.

THE BONDS ARE OFFERED FOR SUBSCRIPTION, AT 92% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD OVER 7.70% TO MATURITY

ON THE SCREEN

J. WARREN KERRIGAN IS EX-PERT SWORDSMAN

Added to the many requisites of a finished actor is the need to know fencing. This is demonstrated in "The Man From Brodney's," a Vita graph special production, at the New Bijou Theatre today and Thursday.

"The Man From Brodney's" is a colorful romance set in the Duchy of Rapp-Thorberg and later in the Island of Japet, in the South Seas. A beautiful love theme dealing with the romance of an American and a princess runs through the story. A native rebellion, a fight for wealth and men-of-war figure in the film.

J. Warren Kerrigan heads the cast. Playing the role of the Man from Brodney's, Alice Calhoun is seen as the Princess Genevra. Miss DuPont plays the part of Mrs. Browne, while Wanda Hawley appears as the flirtatious Lady Deppingham. Pat O'Malley is the erring husband, Robert Browne. Kathleen Key plays the part of Neenah, a native servant.

BEAUTIFUL GOWNS IN TAL- MADGE FILM

In her latest photoplay, "Secrets," now showing at the Elite Theater, Norma Talmadge wears a gorgeous assortment of mid-Victorian gowns.

There is a grey taffeta, with a blue velvet coat, a peach, flower-trimmed evening dress with pink underskirt and dainty lace pantalettes. Then there is a black and gold dress with pearl and flower panels and a lavender negligee.

Norma never looked more beautiful than she does in all the panoply of hoop, lace and bodice and the pantalettes of other days. One of her gowns is a party frock of pale pink almost covered with narrow rows of thread lace, with the bertha embroidered with tiny French flowers. A dressing gown of sumptuous beauty, and bonnets, muffs and countless details of the toilette, all in the period of the photoplay, add much to the beauty of the star.

MARY PHILBIN

"The Rose of Paris," adapted for the screen from "Mitsel," a French best seller written by Dely, the pen name of a brother and sister who have taken France by storm as the result of the novels which they have written in collaboration, comes to the Elite Theater Friday and Saturday starring Mary Philbin. It was translated and adapted for the screen by Bernard McConville, supervising editor of Universal-Jewel productions, assisted by Lenore Coffey, one of the best known scenario writers in motion pictures. Irving Cummings directed. The supporting cast included such favorites as Rose Doline, John Sanpola, Cesare Gravina and Robert Cain.

A BOY OF FLANDERS

In each picture thus far revealing the genius of Jackie Coogan, a different fact of his singular appeal has been disclosed. From "The Kid," in which the lad co-starred with Charlie Chaplin and made his screen debut, to "Long Live the Kings," recently released by Metro, every characterization depicted by Jackie has been different from every other. Different depths of pathos, different degrees of merriment, different heights of tragedy and different qualities of humor have been explored in the kaleidoscopic art of this wonder child.

Now comes "A Boy of Flanders," different from all the others, and, as presented at the Majestic theater, as effective as the best that Jackie has given to the world of his admirers.

MAKE PROGRESS ON NEW A. A. L. UNITS

Twenty-three members have been obtained to date for the two new branches which the Aid Association for Lutherans is forming. Seven enrolled as the result of a meeting of the Lutheran parish at Dale last week. B. E. Mayerhoff is in charge of this work.

Sixteen have applied for membership thus far in the branch being organized by G. D. Ziepler, president, in Trinity Lutheran church, town of Burlington. Approximately 40 or 50 are expected to sign the charter roll. Meetings for formal organization will be held at these two places as soon as the membership has gained sufficient size.

U. S. SHIPPING EXPERTS COMPLETE WORK HERE

T. Park Hay and F. L. Roberts, Chicago men connected with the government merchant fleet, have completed their work in this vicinity and have departed for other "viscos" cities. The former is manager of the United States shipping board and the latter is head of the Chicago office of the department of commerce.

These men were successful in inducing a number of manufacturers to consider use of the government fleet for export and in encouraging others to engage in foreign commerce.

While here Mr. Roberts addressed the commerce students of Lawrence college, telling them about the federal shipping enterprise and about the development of foreign trade.

$72,839 LEFT TO RUN CITY FOR LAST 3 MONTHS OF YEAR

Utility Company Tax Expected to Help a Little Toward End of 1924

Receipts for the month of September were larger than in any other month except January. It is apparent from the September report of Fred E. Boehman, city treasurer. This is due to the fact that the city received $243,166.90 on the sale of the second issue of junior high school bonds. Total receipts for the month were $305,211.71, which added to the previous month's balance, aggregated $554,551.

Most of this money, however, is tied up and designated only for certain purposes. Of this sum, $45,444.51 is contained in the junior high school building fund, and $66,639.33 in the bridge construction fund. With the exception of the $72,839.56 left in the general fund, the rest of the money is contained in funds over which the city council has no control, namely, police and firemen's pension funds, high school and vocational school funds, library fund, park fund, and waterworks funds. The general fund being that particular fund upon which the council draws for the administration of city affairs, the governing body Oct. 1 had only $72,839.56 to ride it over for the remaining quarter of the year. This will be bolstered up to some extent, however, by taxes anticipated from the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company and from the Wisconsin Telephone company, which pay their taxes to the state which in turn distributes it among the state, county and city units.

Disbursements for the month of September amounted to $39,873.77 from the general fund, $13,923.47 from the bridge fund, $69,235.80 from the junior high school fund, and miscellaneous expenditures, which in the aggregate amounted to $170,262.15. Of the general balance on hand, $77,855.83 is invested in pension and endowment funds that are drawing interest.

HOLD EXAMS FOR FIRE, POLICE JOBS

Civil Service Examination Will Be Held Friday in City Hall

An important civil service examination will be held in the city hall Friday evening. Six positions in the Appleton fire department and one in the police department are to be filled, and candidates who have already filed their applications will be permitted to take the examination on that evening.

The examination will be conducted by the Appleton fire and police commission and will be held at 7:30 in the evening in the council chambers. The board will later examine the papers and certify a list of eligibles to the chiefs of the police and fire departments, from which they will make appointments.

A vacancy has existed in the police department for more than a year. The department endeavored to operate without filling the vacancy, but frequent annoyance from tramps in the Appleton Junction district and the excessive territory to be patrolled by one policeman in the Third and Fifth wards led the board to decide that these wards should have greater protection.

The chief of the fire department had for some time past asked for additional help, and these requests were renewed since the big fire losses last January. At the last meeting of the common council permission was granted for the appointment of six more men, whose work is to commence on Jan. 1.

COUNTY GETS $4,707 AS STATE AID FOR SCHOOLS

Apportionment of state money for school supervisor activities during the past year amounted to $215,000 for the various counties, according to an announcement by John Cullahan, state superintendent of schools. Out of this amount Appleton received $4,707, Waupaca, $4,597, Winneago, $2,675, Calumet, $4,469, Brown, $2,576, Shawano, $2,145.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "laid" and "heavy." They clear a clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 30c.

Trip To Farm Is Real Event In Kiddies' Lives

Even the weather dressed up for the holiday trip Mrs. E. Homberg and Mrs. P. J. Elias planned for the little kindergartners of the first Ward school. An automobile ride in care of the children's families, out to Steffen's farm was the big occasion, and it was followed by an afternoon filled with exciting new experiences and strange things to see.

Perhaps the most fun of all was obtained from the ride on the pony's back which each child could have if he wanted it. Some of the girls liked to watch better than ride, but the boys clamored for more than one chance at the journey through the apple trees. And there were apples on the ground that sharp eyes didn't take time to discover. Some of the boys had brought a lunch, in case the apples gave out before they had gone the rounds. And one little fellow had even brought a napkin, so that his sandwich might be eaten properly.

The eggs, barn, cows and haystack all were part of a strange new world and for the next month at least, the kindergartners will be a noisy place for carpenters, and painters, who are trying to reproduce the farm they have seen.

In addition to the many new things to paint and build, the children have a picture in their little heads of what harvest means. It will be easy to tell tales of Halloween pumpkins, and Thanksgiving goodies, for a duck can easily be dressed up in enough feathers to make a turkey! And there were many ornery ducks on the farm, playing tricks on the children who tried to catch them.

The gobins and elves and jack-o'-lanterns will easily come to life now, in the setting of cornstalks, piled in the fields, and the big red barn, where elves love to hide.

AMUNDSON GOES WEST TO INSPECT CABBAGE SEED

Robert A. Amundson, county agricultural agent, has left for the Pacific coast, in the interest of Outagamie county producers. He will be in the vicinity of Mount Vernon, Wash., between Oct. 19 and 21, inspecting the seed cabbage that is being grown there for growers raised cabbage to produce 400 pounds of seed. This year they will take 500 pounds of seed which will be distributed among cabbage growers of the county next spring. On his way to Washington Mr. Amundson intends to stop at the state college of agriculture at Berkeley, Calif., in order to obtain first hand information of the seed and mouth disease which prevailed in that state this year.

OWNERS OF CAR COULDN'T SEE JOKE IN THIS

Theft of an automobile at Rainbow Gardens one night last week, as reported to the police station, later proved to be a "joke" practiced on the owner by some of his friends. It was an Oshkosh party that had stopped at Rainbow Gardens and left their coats, hats and grips in the car. They returned to Oshkosh by taxi.

Pulling Together

THE outward and visible manifestations of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) organization consists of certain refineries, buildings, storage depots, service stations, tank wagons and quantities of crude petroleum and its products.

These tangible things any oil company may copy. The refineries of this Company, efficient as they now are, nevertheless may be copied by others. Its system of distribution may be copied. The design of its service stations, with their infinitely practical arrangements for service, may be copied. For all these things are but the work of hands.

But back of all these material possessions is something else—something fundamental, intangible—whose workings cannot be imitated. This is the will and the energy to create; the ideal which inspires and animates intrinsic service. This determination, this will and enthusiasm of heart cannot be copied. It is the unique possession which gives character to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

This character is expressed in ideals of management. A prominent industrial engineer well says: "It is the part of management to manage. It is the part of science to overcome difficulties. Anybody can accept things as they are."

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has never been content to "accept things as they are." It will never be satisfied until petroleum is made to yield the greatest possible number of products which shall render a useful service to society.

This Company believes that an industrial organization exists and is permanent only because it renders an essential service.

It is the enthusiastic, wholehearted determination to serve, on the part of the 27,160 employees, which has made this Company a constructive force.

It is the harmonious pulling together of this industrial army that has enabled the Company to build a great business upon a foundation of fundamental service.

This spirit, which is imbued in the heart of every Standard Oil employee, is the key to the success of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). You will find it manifest at every point. It is inherent. It is inimitable.

RUNNING LIGHT and RUNNING WATER

THE little city boy who marveled when his country cousins "put water in a glass vase and lit it" belongs to a generation which has forgotten the coal oil lamp.

But there are, even now, millions of isolated homes where every day some one must clean and fill the lamps. It is to give these homes "running light" that we are making private electric plants—as we are making plumbing fixtures for countless homes that only now are beginning to enjoy the privilege of running water.

We are very proud of the Kohler Automatic Power and Light Plant; of our engineers who designed it; of our skilled mechanics who make it run so smoothly; and of the praise it wins wherever it goes. We are glad that this new product has proved itself a worthy bearer of the name which we have been building for half a century.

Kevin Points Orange Squad For Hard Tilt With Manitowoc Team

Shipbuilders Have Heavy Line-up With Halfback Vogel and Center Scoracki as Major Stars

With one victory and one defeat behind them, Appleton high school gridgers are working hard to get set for Saturday's clash with Manitowoc which will open their season on the home grid. Some of the Orange youngsters carried off slight injuries from the Fond du Lac contest Saturday but none of them are being kept from practice by their hurts.

Coach Jule Kevin had much room for improvement in his candidates during the Fond du Lac fracas. They had the advantage in weight and speed but missed a lot of chances when they fumbled the ball at crucial moments. Kevin is devoting most of his time this week to smoothing out the rough spots. His youngsters are to handle the ball and putting them through a stiff system of work-outs with the new dummy which has been erected. A few new formations are being tried out, but until the gridgers have learned to pull the old ones perfectly they will direct their main efforts to a refresh of their previous plays.

Manitowoc is reputed to have a heavy squad which will outweigh the Appleton huskies. They swamped Sturgeon Bay, 23 to 6, in a game Saturday. During the first half they found the going hard but after their star halfback, Vogel, who had been out with an injured arm, was sent in, they looked like a different team, according to reports, and easily walked away from their opponents. Scoracki, center, also covered himself with glory after he went in in the second half, and these two men will give the Orange youngsters a lively time.

CURTAIN RISES ON APPLETON FISTIC SEASON ON OCT. 28

Johnston Signs Johnny Heiderer to Meet Sielaff, Jawson or Cawley

Elmer Johnston, Appleton fight promoter, plans to raise the curtain on the fistic arena here on Tuesday, Oct. 29. The windup will bring together two good lightweights, Johnny Heiderer, the Butternut Wildcat, having been signed as one of the main attractions. Johnston is considering three men from whom he will choose Johnny's opponent. Joe Sielaff, Joe Jawson and Jimmy Cawley. Sielaff is on a Milwaukee card scheduled for Oct. 26, and Jawson now is fighting in Boston. If Sielaff wins his Cream City fight he probably will be staged for an engagement in Philadelphia immediately, which would make it impossible to get him for the Appleton show.

Leo Farnicari hastened here from Chicago Tuesday to close for Cawley, his latest acquisition, but Johnston refused to commit himself and delayed the final agreement until Thursday or Friday. Probably Cawley will be the best match for Heiderer, but he is not as well known to local fans as Sielaff and Jawson.

Heiderer's manager, Al Williams, is an Appleton man. He roused quite some interest in Milwaukee recently by offering to post a $1,000 forfeit to support his claim that Heiderer would satisfy the fans, and thereby get his man a place on the card. Johnny justified his confidence by outpointing the flashy Harry Kahn, although he had had but little time to prepare for the match after a long illness. Heiderer came to the front about two years ago but the flu put an end to his ring activities shortly after, and it required a long sojourn in the northern woods to put him back on his feet. He has been fighting off and on for about a year now, and looks better than ever.

Johnny was born and raised in Butternut, Wis., but an effort will be made to persuade Williams to bring him here permanently.

KAUKAUNA HIGHS INVADE NEENAH

Electric City Schoolers Have Heaviest Squad in Years This Season

Kaukauna-Kaukauna high school expects to have another tough customer on its hands next Saturday when the football squad goes to Neenah for its first out of town game this season. Coach Smith's warriors have shown unquestionable superiority over all other teams the boys have encountered thus far and while they may have a little trouble, they expect finally to annex the game as another victory.

The Orange and Black line this season is heavier than it has been in many years. In addition practically every man on the team is capable of playing the game right. The backfield, while not exceptionally heavy, is fast and the halves have shown

PACKERS PREPARE FOR TOUGH BATTLE WITH MILWAUKEE

Badger Manager Offers Players Bonus to Defeat Green Bay, Is Rumor

Green Bay—With one of the greatest collections of football stars ever gathered together, the Milwaukee Badgers will invade Green Bay on Sunday afternoon to battle the Packers in a Pro league game. It will also be a state championship series contest.

The Packers have held the Badger state pro title for seven years but Manager McGurk claims he is going to upset the Big Bay Blues or so broke in the attempt this season. The rumor has it that his club is one of the most expensive in the circuit. It is understood that the Milwaukee manager has come to bat with a 10 per cent bonus offer to his players if they beat the Packers. Milwaukee has never scored a win over Cap. Laubach's team on the professional gridiron.

ARE GOING GOOD Milwaukee started off the season by taking a 17 to 7 licking at the hands of the Chicago Cardinals. Breaks of the game paved the way for all three of the Milwaukee touchdowns. Two weeks ago, the Badgers beat the Kansas City Blues, 3 to 0, thanks to Red Dunn's educated toe, and last Sunday they buried the husky Kenosha Maroons 21 to 0.

Manager McGurk has rounded up the best football players in the country. At the tackles, he has 'Bub' Waller, star of the St. Louis club in 1923, and Larry Wiedergast, last year captain of W. & J. who was named on several All American selections. Jean, Bob Foster, Nadolny are his center flankers while Larsen and Pieoritti are playing center. These players are considered top notchers in the post graduate class. Sachs, Clem Neacy, and Benny Winkelman are the ends. Winkelman starred for the Badgers last year while Neacy is a product of Colgate college, the Packers tried hard to get.

STARS IN BACKFIELD The backfield is composed of stars. Red Dunn, famous Marquette ace, is playing quarterback and burning up the pro grid. Jimmy Conzelmann has moved to halfback where he is showing better than ever. Erickson, considered the best halfback ever turned out at W. & J., is captaining the eleven and playing the 'other half' while the old reliable Dinger Doane, line plunger extraordinary, is at fullback. Doane is the gridger who smashed through the Packers line for a touchdown in the sensational game played between the two teams at Milwaukee last year.

ILLINOIS DEPENDS ON EDUCATED TOE OF EARL BRITTON

Yost Develops Rockwell and Steger to Match Zuppke's Pair of Aces

Chicago—Upon the field goal kicking ability of Earl Britton, Illinois halfback, much may depend in the impending clash between the Illini and Michigan, tied last year for the Western conference title. Britton is one of the five Big Ten players who so far during the season have booted the oval for the triple tally, his practiced toe bringing victory for Illinois against Nebraska, 9 to 6.

Red Grange, Coach Zuppke's All-American triple threat ace, is another source upon which the Illini rely for scores. Against the combination of Britton and Grange will be pitted the equally famous Rockwell and Steger. Coach Yost is developing Steger to be as effective as Grange in advancing the ball while Rockwell is being groomed to hold his own with Britton. Michigan in practice is stressing the long forward pass which defeated the Illini Aggies last week.

Meanwhile six other conference eleven were preparing to come to grips this week end, in games affecting the title. Chicago is looking ahead a week to the clash with Ohio State, while arranging its reception for Indiana this Saturday. Both the Maroons and the Hoosiers are perfecting their respective offenses.

Bob Peplaw, star of the Minnesota line with injuries, but otherwise the strong Gopher outfit, with Graham at quarter and Lindberg, line ripping fullback, in fine trim is ready for Wisconsin. Plans of Coach Ryan of the Badgers for the conflict are in the dark since the team was able only to tie Coe, 7 to 7, last week.

Hopeful of continuing its meteoric record in its preliminary games, Northwestern is drilling for Purdue, which is equally anxious to retrieve the prestige it lost to Ohio State. All of Coach Phelan's Boilermakers are in shape with Don Monroe and Wellman. Ohio State game casuals, back in uniform.

Sectional interest only follows Ohio rehearsing for Ohio Wesleyan, and Iowa who is host this week to Lawrence. Coach Rockne's Notre Dame squad finished their home drilling Wednesday for the Army game at West Point. Selection of a squad to make the pilgrimage east resulted from the showing, made at the last session and those of the past three weeks. Defensive tactics have been stressed in the final practice.

NUSS-CONLEY CARD POPULAR WITH FANS

Advance Ticket Sales Promise Big Gate at Green Bay Menu Friday

Green Bay—From the advance seat sale, it looks as if Green Bay Boxing club promoters made a ten strike when they hitched up Nuss and Conley to feature one of the head line bouts in Friday night's fistic card at Turned Hall.

Many of the out of town sport lovers, who were here Sunday for the Packer-Kansas City game, made reservations for the mit carnival on Friday night. A block of a hundred seats have been set aside for Mar-Me-nominee as the Twin City mit followers are coming down there strong to see Archie Meisner swap punches with Heinemann, the Milwaukee flash, in the other half of the twin bill line up.

Al Fain, Roy Conley's manager, is confident that the 'Parson' will make things mighty interesting for the pride of De Pere. 'Conley will be at top form for the Nuss go,' said Fain, 'and it is a certainty that the hard hitting Jimmy is going to have a busy evening ahead of him. Roy's hands are in good shape and he will be able to pound away with both mits. I look for him to win.'

Jawn Holds Confab With Cozy Dolan

New York—Cozy Dolan and John McGraw were closeted alone for two hours Tuesday afternoon in the office of the Giants.

McGraw leaves for Europe Wednesday, and Cozy Dolan had begged the interview to make his last pathetic plea. He had previously implored a hearing of Judge Landis, by whom he has been indicted and expelled from organized baseball, but the judge, grim and austere as when he was on the court bench, refused to see him.

What took place at the secret meeting between the czar of the Giants and his ex-lieutenant? Did Cozy, who has aged ten years in the past two weeks, protest his innocence? Did he make a clean breast of the whole affair and ask for mercy? Did McGraw send him away without hope? Did he offer to help Cozy get another chance?

Nobody but the two of them can tell.

LAWRENCE LOOKS LIKE FAVORITE OF LITTLE FIVE

Ripon's Stock Slumps After Shutout by St. Norberts Whom Blues Beat, 42-0

Milwaukee—Ripon college by its defeat last Saturday by St. Norberts college, 6 to 0, indicated that its football team was not in a class with the strong Lawrence college team which defeated St. Norbert's eleven 42 to 0 on Oct. 4. For that reason, Ripon's stock in the Little Five conference title race has dropped noticeably, according to opinion of gridiron fans.

Beloit and Lawrence remain the outstanding figures of the Little Five race with Carroll college, the 'dark horse,' making steady progress into favor as a contender for the title. The Waukesha eleven gave the Milwaukee Normal school a sound thrashing at Milwaukee, Saturday, 27 to 0 in a non-conference game. By defeating Coach George Downer's machine, the Carrolites have showed beyond question that they are a team that will give the favorites a run for the title.

Northwestern college is hopelessly out of the conference race, having sustained its third defeat at the hands of Lawrence college Saturday, by a score of 55 to 0. Ripon and Beloit also have trimmed Northwestern this season. Lawrence's heavy score against Northwestern indicates that its team will have better than an even break when the college meets the Beloit players later in the season, for Beloit in the Sept. 27 encounter with Watertown, was able only to score a 28 to 6 victory.

The Lawrence-Northwestern game was the only conference tilt last Saturday. Beloit, in an engagement in the Midwest conference, took a close game from Carleton college, 12 to 11, and gives further corroboration to sport writer Frank Sinclair's early assertion that the team is not of the calibre of recent years.

BIG YEAR FOR ROCKWELL Coach Fielding Yost expects Rockwell to be a big sensation in Big Ten football. Rockwell is the young man who took the place of Uteritz when he was injured and became famous over night by his great run against Wisconsin.

VANDERBILT IS HOPEFUL Vanderbilt expects to have one of the strongest teams in this south. Nine of the best men of last season's crack team are in school. The outstanding star of the team is Bomar an All-American selection for end.

Ames And Coe Battles Benefit Badger Squad

Milwaukee—Wisconsin was fortunate in a way in the preliminary games it drew this season. Nothing could be done more for the Badgers to bring out their weaknesses and to rouse their fighting spirit than the games with Ames and Coe.

The two Iowa colleges were real football titans. Against the background they offered. Ryan learned more about his team than he could have learned if topheavy and impressive victories had been scored over setups in a dozen preliminary games.

So close were the Badgers to defeat in each of the games, and so often were they forced to fight with their backs to the wall that it actually must have hurt their pride. But Ryan has a hunch of fighters under his wing. They were strung both by Ames and by Coe, and they'll be a fighting lot when they face Minnesota in the first conference game of the season at Camp Randall next Saturday.

Minnesota showed both scoring strength and a good defense against the Haskell Indians last Saturday. According to stories from the Spaulding stronghold, the Indians were quick to see the futility of hitting the line and resorted almost entirely thereafter to passing, with little success, however.

GOPHER LINE STRONG The Gophers are favored this year by a veteran line from tackle to tackle. Only the wings are weak, but even they are coming around now. Easton, former Minnesota star, is developing them. The backfield with Lidberg, Graham, Peterson, Ascher and Joe Gordon fighting for positions is a powerful combination, although it lost some of its strength when Peplaw, who had a berth at one of the halves just about clinched, was forced to the sidelines by injuries.

Out at Madison after the sad showing of Wisconsin against Coe, the campus will be satisfied with nothing but a victory over the traditional Gopher rivals.

The material for a strong team is there. Even in the unsatisfactory showings against Ames and Coe it showed its strength. The Badgers clearly outgained Coe last Saturday, piling up 15 first downs, but lacked the punch at critical times or fumbled. With a sustained offense Wisconsin would have won.

Minnesota showed both scoring strength and a good defense against the Haskell Indians last Saturday. According to stories from the Spaulding stronghold, the Indians were quick to see the futility of hitting the line and resorted almost entirely thereafter to passing, with little success, however.

GOPHER LINE STRONG The Gophers are favored this year by a veteran line from tackle to tackle. Only the wings are weak, but even they are coming around now. Easton, former Minnesota star, is developing them. The backfield with Lidberg, Graham, Peterson, Ascher and Joe Gordon fighting for positions is a powerful combination, although it lost some of its strength when Peplaw, who had a berth at one of the halves just about clinched, was forced to the sidelines by injuries.

DODGERS SIGN UP YOUNG HURLER OF SOUTHERN WHEEL

Leon (Lefty) Williams of Atlanta Surprised by Call of Big Leaguers

Atlanta, Ga.—When the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league assembled at the spring training camp in Clearwater, Fla., they will be accompanied by an 18 year old Atlanta boy, Leon (Lefty) Williams, who pitched for Jackson, Miss., in the Cotton States league last summer on the same club with Red Barron.

In accordance with the custom of the big league teams, the Dodgers had a man out in that section of the country scouting the bushes for new material. One day while Williams was filling a hurling assignment for his Mississippi team, Nap Rucker, who also made some reputation throwing 'em across in the big show, was sitting in the stands.

Nap took a liking to the work of young Williams and staved over to watch him pitch again. His style was still pleasing to the eye of the veteran hurler.

When the season ended in the Cotton States league, Williams came back to his home in Atlanta to spend the winter. Here he met the same man he had talked with in the west. They talked some more.

Then Nap decided that it was time for him to go back up the country, but he, knowing good material when he saw it, was reluctant to leave the youngster behind, so he carried him along.

The Atlanta boy visited the camp of

New London Profits By New Ruling

A ray of hope has pierced the gloom which shrouded New London after playing Marawa to a scoreless tie on the grid Saturday. According to Mark Castlin, head grid coach of Lawrence college, New London won the game. One of the New London youngsters kicked a field goal in Saturday's contest but the official present at the game ruled the play out. He was right according to the old rules, but Castlin has informed New London that the rule specifying the ball must be on the ground in kicking a field goal is obsolete having been abolished in the 1924 regulations. The matter will be referred to the Wisconsin Athletic association to make assurance doubly sure.

This gives New London its second shutout of the season as it makes the score 3 to 0.

the Dodgers and was allowed to pitch during batting practice. Manager Robinson also liked the work of the youth, so they got together and now Lefty is back home in Atlanta with a Brooklyn contract in his pocket.

Williams attended school at Boys' High and Commercial High. He pitched only for Commercial, but did not make the team at the former school, being only a freshman while there.

He will be given a chance in the big tent.

"The Nervous Wreck"

By E. J. Rath
Copyright 1924 by NEA Service Inc.

Sally's day did not bristlen until afternoon, when Charley made a suggestion. The Underwoods had ridden back into the hills to see some of the prize cattle; they might not be back until late. It was the Wreck's chance to take a couple of horses and look around a bit they could have their pick of what was left in the corral. Charley thought he could find a riding skirt for her; there were always some outfits for possible guests.

The Wreck did not enjoy his ride. He never did, although it would have been useless to expect him to admit it. If only he knew where Charley had hidden the front wheel of the filly he could laugh at every horse in Montana. But just now there was a certain method in his grim purpose to stay in the saddle. Things came to the coast, he and Sally could steal horses, and with that event as a possibility he was behooved to learn something about this painful and primitive method of travel.

Sally had just suggested that they turn back, certain that by the time they reached the house the Wreck would have enough for the day when they encountered the Underwoods—father, son, and daughter. It was her first close glimpse of the family, and she studied them with interest, especially Harriet. Charley performed the introduction.

The Underwoods did not pay much attention to the Wreck, but they were frankly interested in Sally. Even Jerome Underwood was disposed to be gracious, for he was not unmindful of the dishes that came to his table. It was his first experience with a woman cook at the ranch, and it suited him so well that he had forgotten all the admonitions of his New York specialist. He and Sally sat at the table, and with that event as a possibility he was behooved to learn something about this painful and primitive method of travel.

On the homeward ride Underwood and his foreman rode together, talking of the ranch. That left Sally and Chester Underwood paired. Chester found himself in a state of agreeable surprise. He did not know that cooks were young and good to look at, and knew how to sit in a saddle. He did not know that they could laugh and talk and be unaffectedly interesting at the same time. But he discovered all these things, and he forgot that the ranch bored him. He had quite a gay time of it all the way home. People from the east always had an interest for Sally; she liked to hear about things of which she knew very little, being possessed of a healthy and enthusiastic curiosity. She led him to talk as much as he would, and found him willing.

Watching from the rear, the Wreck's brooding turned into a morose channel. Why was it that he couldn't talk to a woman in that way? He knew that he had none of the graces he scorned them. But why were they given to the stripping sons of rich men? How did it come that he was always clumsy and ill at ease whenever a woman was about?

Even Sally Morgan bothered him. If she bothered him, why didn't she bother Chester Underwood? But she didn't; not a bit. Nor did Chester Underwood bother her. But Henry Williams did; the Wreck knew it. She was on an easy footing of comradeship with the newcomer in five minutes; it was always the same way with ranch hands, or anybody else. But with himself he felt that she was constantly under a constraint, even though she tried to ease it. She never understood him; sometimes she laughed at him; sometimes she was certain that she had a sense of pity for him, a realization that fairly sickened him. What the devil was the matter with him anyhow? And with her?

When the ranch house came into sight, some idiot urged his horse to a gallop. The Wreck assumed that it was Chester, but he could not be sure. He was too busy. The Wreck's gray galloped also; he had a brainless way of imitating other horses. Everybody galloped. The Wreck survived the gallop by some astonishing trick of fortune, but he did not survive the sudden stop at the gate of the corral. He went right on for a little distance, reaching the ground on all fours. As he slowly arose he became aware that Chester was grinning down at him.

His hands rolled themselves into fists automatically, and he took a step forward. Then Sally was at his side, gripping him firmly by the arm. "Let go of me," he said savagely. "I'm all right."

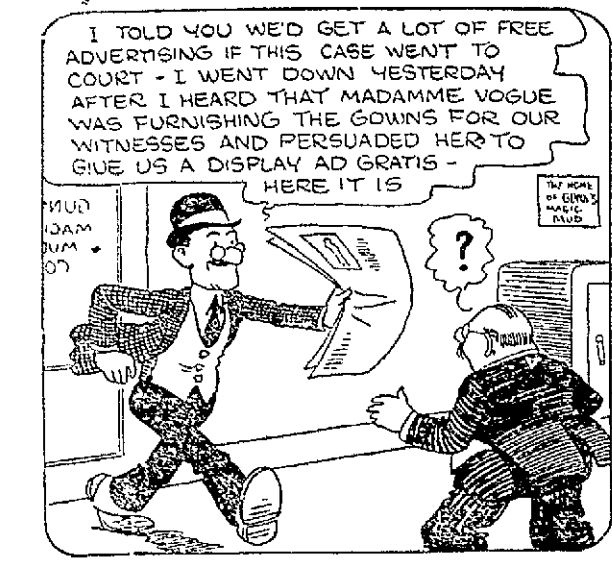

"Why, of course you are, Henry." And then, in a whisper, "You come with me. You're not going to do any fighting today. I'm ashamed of you. Henry Williams, you're worse than a second step. I don't know what I'll do with you."

CHAPTER XII
THE SHERIFF ARRIVES

Wild, and yet wilder, were the tales that came from the Underwood family concerning the Wreck, and simple incidents of borrowed equine. Even Charley McQueen considered that the west must be reverting to barbaric times. Jerome Underwood stuck to his four bandits with a tenacity worthy of the best possible imagination. Harriet Underwood, at first disposed to be literal and to report only those things which she saw, remembered that she was never bored, and so she scratched down her news, which she had held her ringed fingers off for the inspection of the man with the gun, and he growled at her.

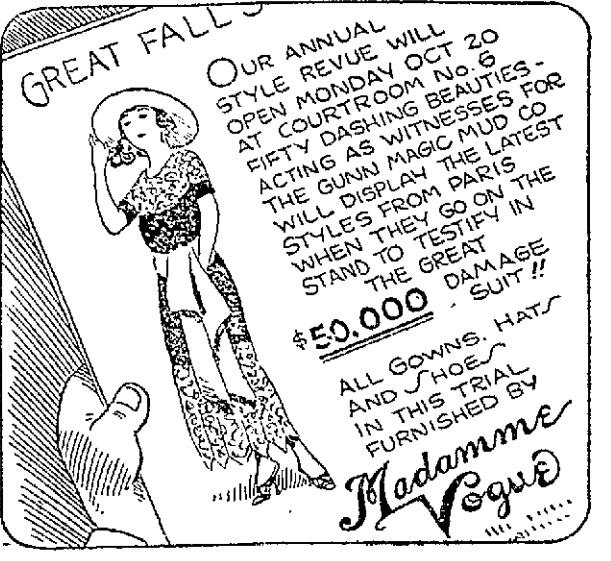

Chester confirmed the four bandits, because he had wisdom enough to see that his father might appreciate confirmation. There was a note of pressed heroism in Chester's voice. Times he had been about to leap, all that restrained him, it appeared, was a fear that when the shooting began others than himself might fall as senseless in the horrid confusion. He told all this to Sally during the ride back to the house with a calm and challenge that surprised her. She had an idea that resourceful thing rarely

Varnish Can Make Clean New Floors

Sanitation is of utmost importance in the kitchen. And in the pursuit of sanitation beauty is found.

Varnished floors are clean floors, sanitary and healthful, and easy to keep clean. The kitchen floor is subjected daily to the footwear of the butcher, the baker and the grocer. Frequent cleaning is necessary, and the varnished floor yields easily to any proper cleansing process. Paint or varnish the woodwork, making sure that all the cracks are filled with putty at the first coat of paint has been applied.

Paint the stove with the special enamel paints prepared for the purpose. Cooking is always attended by moisture, which causes unprotected iron to rust.

Enamel the sink. Be sure that the surface is dry before applying the enamel. Three thin coats should be given it, allowing sufficient time between each coat for drying. Enamel around the water pipes and wherever you think any moisture may collect.

The ice-box should not be forgotten. Sandpaper the rough spots and apply a coat of enamel, thinned down. When the first coat is dry, apply a second and heavier coat. Then a third if you would have the best results on the exterior of your ice box. Of course varnish may be used in place of enamel to prevent damage due to sweating, if preferred.

Windows should be screened and the screens painted. Paint preserves the screening and saves it from early depreciation, aside from the neat appearance and cleanliness.

If you have a linoleum covered floor and it is worn in spots, scrub it with soda water, and then thoroughly dry give it a thin coat of ground color paint. Then paint it with a dark oak color, and when this is dry varnish it all over.

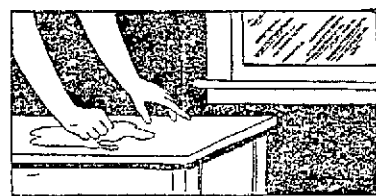

Household Suggestions

KEEP SWEET OIL

Always keep sweet oil in the kitchen cabinet to be used immediately in case of a burn.

RAINY DAY WORK

When rainy days prevent outside activities, the careful housekeeper will clean built-in drawers, china closets, chests or trunks.

GROWING MINT

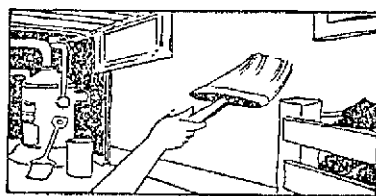

Mint will grow in water like other plants if left in a sunny window and given plenty of air.

KEEPING ICE CREAM

Ice cream can be kept perfectly hard for several hours if it is placed in a paper cooking bag with the ends folded tightly to keep out the air and is placed directly on the ice in the refrigerator.

WHITEWASH CELLAR

The cellar should be whitewashed in the spring or the fall because besides the added appearance of clean lines it actually does disinfect and purify the place.

RINSE REFRIGERATOR

After you wash your refrigerator with soap suds rinse with hot water and ammonia.

COTTON FOR IRON

If you will wind cotton around the handle of your iron your hands will not feel dry and uncomfortable when you finish the week's laundry.

INVITATIONS TO FRIENDS

Invitations to a christening are never formal because none but the family and a few intimate friends are supposed to be asked. In this day invitations nearly always are sent over the telephone.

Too Much Cosmetics Used, Not Enough Eugenics, Say Men Of Science Direfully

Here are five of the beauty types named recently by the eminent biologist Edward Albert Wiggam, author and lecturer, who warns that beauty is on the decline. Center, Katherine MacDonald; (above) Queen Alexandra and Jeitiza, the noted singer. (Below) Mary Garden and Geraldine Farrar.

New York.—Biological or synthetic beauty—which will you have? Science which has had the question well stirred in its test tubes. Finds present-day society preferring the latter.

In spite of all argument on the subject beauty is rapidly on the decline, biologists find.

There is too much cosmetics and not enough eugenics. Furthermore they are finding that the combination of "beautiful but dumb" does not hold true in the majority of tests, and that beauty and intelligence are much more likely to be found traveling together. Physical beauty, they discover, is an indication of superiority in mind and soul.

And, however they may differ on minor details, the biologists are unanimous on what to do about it.

Modern society must want beauty as the Greeks wanted it in ancient days and must make their marriages accordingly. The handsome man must marry the beautiful woman.

Prof. Knight Dunlap, doctor of philosophy and author of "Personal Beauty and Racial Betterment," and many other scientific works, says that beauty is being wasted in scandalous fashion.

"The more beautiful the woman, the greater her chance of a wealthy match," he points out. The beautiful woman too frequently marries social position and wealth and not a mate. "Beautiful stage girls are practically lost to posterity," continues Prof. Dunlap.

Those carefully selected entertainers are picked for form, beauty, personality and capacity for expression. "Because they are devoted to stage careers and because of the type of life into which they are thrown these beauties of the stage seldom have children and seldom select good mates," he goes on.

"I have been often criticized for my attitude toward the stage girl. Chorus girls, dancers and the like may be of coarse fiber due to environmental conditions or lack of education, but they may have a back ground of high grade stock. Once the stage career is upon them they are practically lost to society, so far as perpetuating their beauty is concerned."

Prof. Dunlap invites the casual investigator to stand on any busy corner from Fifth Avenue to Main Street and pick the percentage of beauties, or to select the number of attractive women in a given territory.

"The number of women who would make even good bare-legged dancers is woefully low. If women had a chance to vote on dress change that would reveal the form the majority would be against it—and for obvious reasons," he concludes.

And then there is Alfred Edward Wiggam, noted biologist, author of "The Fruit of the Family Tree" and "The New Dialogue of Science," who declares, "Unless something is done, about it, in a few generations the women of America will be a stout-legged dull-witted unattractive race."

Explaining his statement he points out that the unattractive often have families of six to a dozen while marriages of handsome couples are few, and when it does happen there are but few children left to carry out the tradition of beauty.

All that is necessary to remedy the situation is that a nation really desire beautiful people and make matched accordingly he says.

"The Cromwellites thought beautiful women were bad and so produced a race of plain looking people. The Greeks wanted beauties and had them," he says. And he sees a ray of light in the admiration of the masses for beauty of screen and stage and of the youthful admiration of athletic young men and women. These are good omens.

Wiggam is a great believer in the combination of beauty and intelligence, a theory into which Prof. Frederick Adams Woods, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has gone deeply.

Hazek Ellis, writer and eugenicist, went into 1033 cases and all findings showed that the majority of intelligent persons were pleasing to the eye.

Some of the better known women who combine beauty and intelligence charm and talent were named by Dr. Wiggam as follows:

Mary Garden, Jeitiza, Queen Alexandra, Katherine MacDonald, Geraldine Farrar, Ethel Barrymore and Irene Castle.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO RUTH ELLINGTON

You have frightened me dreadfully, dear Ruth. You have such an uncompromising way of facing facts my dear. I had never owned, even to myself, that Karl Whitney had paid out a small fortune to enable me to keep his pearls. Fifteen thousand dollars! Jack will never forgive me, particularly as I sold some of those stones to get him out of trouble. He will have the humiliation of feeling that a man who loved his wife has done this for him. I don't think I can tell him about the pearls, do you dear?

If I do it will keep me very much worried and unhappy, for, Ruth, I shall never feel safe with Alice. Isn't that a dreadful thing for one to say about one's sister? However, I am sure it is true. I know that Alice would sacrifice me tomorrow if she thought it would not blast her in Karl's eyes. She wants those pearls that Karl gave me, notwithstanding her own string is much longer.

I'd be awfully glad to give them back to her for I don't want to quarrel with her, and I have an uneasy feeling that those beads will bring me unhappiness yet.

Queer, isn't it that Karl Whitney should have taken such a wary of commemorating his regard for me? As you say, I think he's had really more joy in collecting the pearls and musing what he considers an unrequited love than he would have done had I married him. He is a dear, sweet fellow though, Ruth, and if you could see the way in which he tries to make Alice happy I am sure you would be as fond of him as I am. I would like to tell him that if he, did not give in to Alice quite so much there would be a better chance of both of them being happy in this marriage. Indeed, dad virtually told Alice this the other day.

I'm starting home day after tomorrow. If you love me, don't let Mother Prescott in the meantime fool around that desk for as much as I hate to confess it even to you, dear Ruth, there is a secret drawer and it contains documents that I would not have on this earth. I see into it I have put a great deal of myself. Into it I have written things that I would tell to no one. I hardly think that Mother Prescott would read these things if she found them, except she would probably declare that she did not dream that I knew about the secret drawer and she thought the documents were written by someone else.

I am almost sure that Alice suspects that I lunched with Karl the other day. It sits as uneasy on my conscience as the mince pie I ate at that time did upon my tummy. I don't know what a mistake, all of it, including the mince pie for Karl has seemed unhappier than ever since that day. I think, however, that is because Alice took him to task for leaving her to go to lunch by her self.

I wonder if she is going to be perfectly happy in her marriage of hers. In fact, I wonder if anyone is perfectly happy. I'm not quite sure whether I'm perfectly happy or not, for I do not think I really know what perfect happiness is. Like all other mortals, I only know times of ecstatic bliss of great exaltation, and quiet content. Is that enough for anyone, even our friend LESLIE (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

How To Make Homes Cozy

BREAK UP SETS OF BOOKS

Sometimes it is advantageous to break up a set of books, especially one with brightly colored bindings, so as not to have too much color in one spot. The bookcase looks best with its varicolored bindings scattered about more or less without design.

Boys Need Training To Become Husbands

Kansas City, Mo.—American homes have become little more than a bed and a cafeteria, says Dr. Edith Hale Swift of New York, social hygiene exponent.

"It is all foolishness to talk about bringing back the old-fashioned home, we must change it to meet the present-day civilization."

And to this end Dr. Swift sees the reconstruction of husbands—they are to become perfect mates.

He will divide the family income equally with his wife.

He will hunt his own collar buttons.

He will help to mind the baby.

He will not tell the children to "go ask mother" when they want something.

He will leave the morning paper at home.

He will be an equal partner of his wife in the responsibility of running the home.

"We have a great deal about training girls to be good wives," says Dr. Swift, "and it is now time that something was done to train boys to be good husbands."

"We have part time husbands who spend at least eight hours a day in stimulating and interesting activity in the business world. But the wives of these husbands, usually of equal mentality, must spend long hours in petty drudgery. It is no wonder that after 10 years they frequently shrivel in personality and their husbands wonder why they haven't kept pace with them.

"But the time is not far distant when the wife will spend a part of her time each day outside the home in some expression of her own creative ability, either in business or professional pursuits."

The American home must be developed to be made more attractive to the wife, says Dr. Swift, and to that end she is advocating education for parenthood and for marriage.

CAMELLIA CHANGING

The camellia is changing colors as the season advances. First every one wore the natural white ones, then came the deep red ones, and now green ones are the rage.

The Erring Wife and Mother is the woman who sacrifices her health and consequent happiness to her ambition. We all know such women—those whose homes shall be kept immaculately neat and attractive and their children well dressed they overdo and soon bring on some feminine ailment which is evidenced by nervousness, irritability, headaches, backache and other aches and pains attending such life. Every woman should remember that the most successful remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which for fifty years has been restoring women to health, strength and happiness. adv

ASK C. C. TO BALK FREIGHT INCREASE

Businessmen Meet to Consider Changes in Class Tariffs to Valley

Directors of Appleton Chamber of Commerce will be asked at their bi-weekly meeting at 7:30 Wednesday evening to make formal protest before the Western Truck Line committee, Chicago, against a proposed increase in class freight rates for shipments east of Illinois boundary. This recommendation is the result of a luncheon of 25 businessmen at Con-way hotel Tuesday noon where the notice of hearing was discussed.
Charles Boyd of Appleton Coated Paper Co. acted as chairman. A number of men from other cities of the Fox river valley were present, as the change affects the valley. Among these were C. C. Lamb, traffic manager of Ruesping Leather Co., Fond du Lac; L. J. Pinkerton of Jersild Knitting Co., Neenah; G. C. Campbell, traffic bureau manager of Oshkosh Association of Commerce.

It was shown by figures submitted at the meeting that appleton 85 per cent of the merchandise shipped into the valley comes from east of the Illinois state line and a change in rates would be a serious competitive handicap. One merchant whose shipments amount to $5,000 in freights will be obliged to pay $1,400 more on the same merchandise. These rates will not apply to Green Bay and some of the other lake ports, it is said, with the result that they can deliver goods into the affected cities cheaper than those places can obtain them direct.
The chamber will be asked to cooperate with Oshkosh, Neenah-Menasha and Fond du Lac in filing a protest backed by an abundance of facts.
Possible increases in commodity rates will follow those of class rates, it is said, inasmuch as that usually happens.

LAFOLLETTE NO DECISIVE FACTOR IN WEST, CLAIM
nessee, Kentucky and Maryland, in addition to the 127 electoral votes obtained by Governor Cox in 1920 from the solid south, the total for Davis is 178.
Now there are no states in the west of which Davis can feel absolutely sure. Nor are there any western states, with possibly two exceptions—Wisconsin and North Dakota—of which LaFollette can feel sure.
But assuming that LaFollette were to be given all the states in which he is running second, these would be Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Wyoming, and they make with Wisconsin and North Dakota only 58 electoral votes. Adding these 58 to the 178 for Davis the total is 236 which may be called the non-Coolidge vote. This leaves 295 votes and if Coolidge could get all of them he would win, as 266 is the majority of the electoral college of 531.
All this would seem to indicate a close result but it must not be forgotten that, at the outset of this dispatch, the writer assumed for purposes of analysis that LaFollette might get a maximum of 58 votes in the west. That was the general opinion in the east when this correspondent began his tour. It was not found to be true on actual investigation.
For the 58 votes are imaginary and while the popular vote of LaFollette will be large, this writer would not be surprised if the Wisconsin senator carried only Wisconsin and North Dakota and these states by a close squeeze.
So the situation would appear to be 178 votes for Davis plus about 30 for LaFollette making 208 non-Coolidge votes reasonably certain. This leaves 232 possible votes for President Coolidge.
Now the president can lose 56 votes and still win. Will he? The answer is not to be found in the west but in the east. The writer expects between now and Nov. 1, to visit Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts where the Democrats must get their votes to win. At the end of the tour, an analysis of the eastern states will appear in these columns.

Wisconsin's Safest 7 Per Cent Income Investment

In our judgment, no safer 7% investment than the $500,000 issue of Wisconsin Electric Power Company's cumulative preferred shares, now on sale, has ever been offered in this State. We especially recommend these shares to wage earners and other savings investors, and urge those who want one or more shares to apply for them at once, before the issue is sold out.

The shares cost $100 each, payable all cash or $5 down and $5 a month per share. Paid-up shares draw 7% dividends from date of purchase. Interest at 7% is allowed on monthly payments. If you find you can't finish your payments, you get your money back on demand, but without interest.

Each share pays its owner this cash income: January 1, $1.75; April 1, $1.75; July 1, $1.75; October 1, $1.75 — a total of $7 a year. This income is permanent and dependable. It is paid by checks mailed to shareholders.

Each $100 share represents a preferred ownership equity of $600 in Lakeside, the most efficient large steam-electric power plant in the world, serving the Greater Milwaukee district, one of the solid industrial communities in the world.

In case of need, original buyers of these shares can at any time have them resold through our Securities Department at $100 each, less $1 a share resale charge. The shares are callable by the company at $105 each, plus accrued dividends.

Call, or write for a Circular, or telephone 1005 and let us send a salesman to explain this investment. The buyer of one or two shares on monthly payments is even more welcome than the buyer of a hundred shares paying all cash. Our prime purpose in financing growth here at home is to gain each year several thousand more customer-partners with a mutual interest in helping us increase the business of The Electric Company and its associated utilities.

WANT TO CONDEMN LAND TO RUN ELECTRIC LINE

Petitions for condemnation of land in Calumet and Winnebago counties for the purpose of extending a transmission line have been filed in circuit court at Oshkosh by the Northeastern Power company. The company desires easement rights and privileges for a strip of land 14 feet wide across twelve farms in the two counties. It will furnish electrical power to the Wisconsin Public Service corporation. The line has its origin at High Falls and practically has been completed as far as Kaukauna. In Winnebago county also the greater part of the line has been completed.

As disclosed by the petition, the only lands the company has not been able to purchase at an agreed price with the owners are the following: Rudolph Foelsch, Emma A. Keene, Matt Jost, Carl Dice, John A. Schindler, Joseph M. Schindler, George Schwertzhauer and Morgan P. Jorgensen, of Winnebago; and Marjorie Whitman, William Hoffensberger, Frank Dietzen and John Dietzen. The petitions ask for the appointment of a commission to appraise the value of the land to be acquired.
